

Humane Society employees react to 'bad publicity'

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

They are acutely aware that their employer, the Michigan Humane Society, has had a lion's share of bad publicity in recent days.

They don't understand all that's happened in upper administration. Their own former shelter manager, Tom Goodman, was fired in June because, according to Herbert Martin, executive director, the manager was "incompetent and in over his head."

Employees at the Westland branch of the Michigan Humane Society still aren't exactly sure what that means.

But as they go about their day to day work at the shelter, known as the Kindness Center, the employees seem agreed on one thing.

They love animals, they're proud of their work at the center, and they've got nothing to hide.

An impromptu tour of the shelter was arranged for the Eagle recently. At a moment's notice, Shelter Manager Kathy Krause not only agreed to the tour and interview but seemed to welcome it.

"I'm proud of this shelter, any time of any day," Ms. Krause said. "I'm proud of all the people who work here. We're here because we love animals."

Aside from Ms. Krause, there are 17 employees at the Westland Kindness Center. There are three reception clerks, (plus one to be hired soon) four animal caretakers, three clinic veterinary assistants, one of whom is counted among four persons trained as euthanasia technicians, one records clerk and one janitor, plus the staff veterinarian.

Ms. Krause has been manager since mid-August, but has worked at the shelter for three years, starting as a receptionist, then working in the office and as records manager.

When former manager Tom Goodman was fired, another manager from a different shelter filled in for a few months until Martin, appointed Ms. Krause.

It was the firing of Goodman, and recent developments that led to termination of three other shelter managers by Martin, that has caused the publicity recently swirling about the Humane Society.

Martin readily admits that he was hired in April to make changes desired by the board, to reorganize the society, and after working with the shelter managers, he found that they couldn't work with the new internal policies.

But now, he said in a telephone interview yesterday, "one of the most competent staffs is at Westland."

He said he thinks it is important that the public understand just what the Humane Society does. Ms. Krause spent an afternoon with the Eagle reporter recently to explain just that.

The center performs several services for the public. First of all, it offers adoption services, adopting out between five to 20 cats and dogs per day. These are animals either brought in by owners, or are strays that are determined to be "adoptable."

The shelter also acts as dog pound for five area communities — Westland, Dearborn Heights, Livonia, Canton and Redford. Strays are brought in by animal wardens.

Legally, strays must be held for four days to allow the owner to come in and claim the pet. Animals with tags are held for at least seven days, and the owner notified by phone or mail. On a very good day, maybe 10 will be claimed.

The shelter also takes in "owned" animals. Between 50 and 100 dogs and cats are brought in daily by their owners, Ms. Krause said. They are litters of puppies or kittens that the owner cannot keep or find homes for, dogs that are old, are owned by people who move, or dogs that cannot get along with families.

Add it all up and you have a lot of animals coming in, and very few being claimed or adopted out.

bring in an 8-year-old dog, and of course, to them, it's the cutest dog in the world. But nobody wants to adopt an 8-year-old dog.

"Cute dogs are put to sleep every day," said Ms. Krause.

Naturally, there are more pets brought in during the spring, when litters are born. Maybe 100 animals are euthanized on an average spring day. On the average year-round, about 60 to 65 are "put to sleep" each day.

Shelter workers anger easily over the ignorance of people who refuse to take the responsibility to have their pet neutered.

"If the public would be more responsible, we wouldn't have to put them to sleep. But no, we end up the bad buys," complained one worker.

The animals are "put down" by means of a chemical injection. If the animal is an adult, the injection will be given in a forearm vein by one employee, while another holds it. Smaller animals must be given the injection in the heart because a vein would be too hard to find.

Death occurs within seconds. The euthanasia technicians are now trained in Westland by the veterinarian and the euthanasia and kennel supervisor, Sheryl Cohen. She said it takes about two weeks of training.

Dr. Gregg admitted that sometimes it does happen that the animal will not be killed on the first try of the needle.

"When you put down 150 animals in two days, you're not going to be perfect."

They "hate the business" of killing animals, but do emphasize that it is much more humane to put the animal to sleep than to let it roam, starving, or injured, only to die slowly and painfully on the street.

One young euthanasia technician acknowledged that it sounds ironic when she says she loves her job, and loves animals, but the job requires that caring.

A misconception that many people have about the Humane Society is its source of funding. It is not a state or county agency. It is a private charity, run solely on private contributions, fees it gets from cities or for services, and some money from the United Foundation, said Ms. Krause.

'When you put down 150 animals in two days, you're not going to be perfect...'

The result is that, to a large extent, the majority of animals brought to the Humane Society are put to death.

If there is any overwhelming anger or frustration at Westland's center right now, and any time, it is not towards the politicking of the administrators.

It is toward the public that very nonchalantly brings in dozens of animals daily to be killed, but who keep on allowing their pets to have litters of cats and puppies that must die. It is anger toward the people who won't spend the money to have their pet spayed or neutered. It is toward the people who bring a pet in to be put to death, because they're going away on vacation, and "they'll just buy a new dog when they get back."

"They (the public) complain about us having to kill them, (animals) and they argue about how we kill them, but they keep bringing them in," one employee said bitterly.

People who bring their animals to the center like to delude themselves into thinking their pets will be adopted out, another employee added. For example, they might

As the Eagle reporter toured the facility, five tiny lifeless bodies of small kittens were lined up on one of the tables. They had just been "put to sleep" or "put down."

Animals must be selected from the many brought in to go up for adoption. Factors taken into consideration are health, temperament, age, whether or not they are spayed, and so on.

The shelter runs a veterinary clinic, with staff veterinarian Dr. William Gregg. Even if an animal is doomed to death, he is treated if he is injured when brought in. Residents also bring in their pets for treatment. Also, the veterinarian will spay or neuter animals.

In fact, one of the Westland rules of adoption is that the adopter agree to have any female animal spayed, either there or by a private veterinarian.

According to Martin, the board of directors recently adopted a policy for all the shelters, requiring that any animal adopted out be spayed or neutered. A training officer has been hired to implement this program within the next couple of months, as well as be responsible for training of other employees in their animal handling jobs.

EMU displays works

The paintings and sculpture of Rick Ward, an inmate at the State Prison of Southern Michigan, will be exhibited in Eastern Michigan University's Intermedia Gallery located in McKenny Union on the EMU campus through Nov. 17.

Ward has served 14 years in prison for armed robbery. He has spent the last three years in the psychiatric ward after several suicide attempts.

A psychotherapist introduced art to help Ward communicate his feelings. Ward's only material were crayons, oil pastels and clay.

The resultant art work has led Ward to achieve what he calls a "rebirth" providing a change from self destruction to living.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and admission is free.

Editorial opinions

The choice is yours ...now

It's over. Tuesday's election is now over and the fate of the many candidates and ballot questions has now been decided.

But decided by whom?

Once again, we face the yearly question of why so many citizens staunchly refuse to involve themselves in the democratic process.

Over the past 25 years, we have witnessed the gradual decline of voter involvement in local, state-wide, and national issues. Most people questioned on this phenomenon attribute the cause to a feeling of hopelessness.

It is ironic that the very elections that would set the state and national trends, elections at the local level, are the ones hardest hit by voter apathy.

Experts have laid the blame for poor voter turnout on just about every available scapegoat, from "one vote doesn't mean anything" to "I'm just too busy". But in the end, it matters little what the reason, the fact of voter disinterest is well documented.

While some could argue with validity that it is better if voters unfamiliar with the issues do not vote. But the reality of the situation is cause for alarm.

In several recent elections, U.S. Senators have been elected by fewer than 20 percent of the eligible voters.

One would have to be concerned with the potential of such an unchecked drift toward fewer and fewer electors making the decisions for more and more disinterested citizens.

With special interest groups growing ever larger, it is not difficult to imagine a time when those going to the polls will simply be representing a narrow view of the community and its problems. Plunking votes could become the norm, further reducing the number of votes necessary to gain office or voter approval of special interest ballot questions.

Maybe it's time to implement a reverse poll tax to ensure voter participation.

One method would be to tax every eligible voter an additional $25 per year. The $25 would be refunded at the polls on election day. While it would not be necessary for the citizen to vote in order to get the refund, he or she would have to go to the polls to get the refund.

Another possibility would be to make voting illegal. Given the rebellious spirit of most Americans, they would vote just to prove their independence.

A third possibility would be to make voting more difficult. If it were necessary to go through a great deal of effort to be registered, voters may vote just to avoid losing their registration.

Making voting a status symbol would also encourage turnout.

Why not provide two levels of services for city residents. The first level would be for registered voters. They would be treated with respect and given the first place in each line. Not-registered citizens would have to go to the back of the line, and would be properly heckled by their registered peers.

But the decline of citizens involvement is not really a laughing matter.

The U.S. has sunk to the lowest percentage voter turnout of any of the world's democracies. While simple numbers and statistics do not really define the problem, the ultimate effect could prove to be the undoing of democracy.

While we certainly do not advocate voting just for the sake of voting, we do urge citizens to make the effort to inform themselves on the issues and vote.

It is becoming more apparent with each passing year that the ultimate test of democracy will be whether its citizens are able to first understand, and then vote on the increasingly complex issues facing them.

If citizens do not meet the test, there are many power hungry politicians more than willing to step in and make those decisions for us, and for themselves.

The choice is ours today. Tomorrow it may be too late.

With the cold comes legislative relief

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

There are hints in the air of an oncoming cold and costly winter.

A big winter means big heating bills.

There have been efforts in the Legislature to take some of the sting out of soaring home heating costs, particularly for senior citizens and others with low incomes.

One such effort was a bill, recently signed into law, offering tax credits for low income households. The plan is tied to the existing property tax-rent credit program. In most cases those who are eligible for the property tax-rent credits against their state income tax will also be able to claim credits to assist in home heating. This can be done at the same time a person fills out the state income tax form.

The legislation offers $3 million in home heating relief to as many as 500,000 Michigan households.

The House earlier approved and sent to the Senate a bill to provide state funds to help low income families weatherize their homes.

A new law also works to help conserve fuel by allowing utilities to offer loans for such fuel savers as home insulation and furnace retrofit devices. Rules to implement that law are presently being drafted by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

However, whether or not they can or do participate in these programs, there are many other ways for people to cut their energy costs.

The Energy Extension Service Clearinghouse (EESC) of the Michigan Department of Commerce's Energy Administration has compiled a list of energy conservation measures which would save energy and cut energy costs.

The EESC calls them "quick and common sense ways to cut back on energy use." Included on the list are numerous ways to save heating energy. Most involve little, if any, cost.

The recommendations are:

—Lower your thermostat to 65 degrees during the day and 55 degrees at night.

—Keep windows near your thermostat tightly closed. Otherwise your furnace will keep working after the rest of the room has reached a comfortable temperature.

—If you do not have storm windows, cover windows with clear plastic sheeting. This will seal out the cold and reduce heat loss.

—Dust or vacuum radiator surfaces. Dust and grime impede the flow of heat.

—Make sure there are no obstructions, such as furniture or draperies, around heating air vents inside the house. Closing one or two air vents will not hurt the system, but closing more may unbalance it.

—Open draperies or shades on the sunny side of the house and let the sunshine in. Otherwise, keep draperies and shades closed to help keep warm air in. Always close draperies and shades at night.

—Close off unoccupied rooms. Bedrooms or other rooms which are unused for long periods need not be heated to people-comfort levels.

—To lessen heat loss when a fireplace is in use and the furnace is on: lower the thermostat setting to between 50 and 55 degrees; in the room where the fireplace is located, close all doors and warm air ducts; and since air is needed for the fire, open a window near the fireplace about one-half to one inch.

The EESC points out that home heating energy conservation is related to electricity conservation. Nearly all heating systems use electric fans or pumps for circulating hot air or water. Therefore, conservation of heating energy directly reduces the use of electric fans or pumps, saving electricity.

The EESC also offers tips to save energy and cut costs in the use of hot water heaters.

—Check the temperature of your hot water heater. Most water heaters are set for 140 degrees or higher, but you may not need water that hot, unless you have a dishwasher. A setting of 100 to 120 degrees can provide adequate hot water for most families. (If you are uncertain about the tank water temperature, draw some water from the heater through the faucet near the bottom and test it with a thermometer.)

—Don't let sediment build up at the bottom of your hot water heater. Sediment lowers the heater's efficiency and wastes energy. Once a month, flush the sediment out by drawing several buckets of water from the tank through the water heater drain faucet.

—Limit the length of your showers. Showers can use less hot water than baths, but take care not to "soak" under the shower heat.

—Always use cold water when it will do the job as well as hot.

—Replace worn washers on leaky faucets. A drippy hot water faucet leaking at the rate that would fill a four-ounce teacup in 10 minutes can waste over 1,600 gallons of hot water per year.

—Do not leave water running shaving.

—Turn off faucets promptly after use.

—Do not waste hot water on a garbage disposal. Most operate better with cool water.

—Use hot water during off peak hours when possible. Off peak hours are 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Teacher's tall, tall tales or "Do as I say, not...."

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

This past week, television and radio stations, not to mention the pages of your local newspapers, have been filled with information on ballot proposals you voted on this week.

Unfortunately, most of that information was provided by self-serving groups or individuals whose only goal was to scare you into voting the way they wanted you to.

Now it could be argued that the practice of last minute media campaigns, aimed at undecided voters, is just part of the democratic process. But when the information provided by these self-professed leaders of the community, is not only misleading, but blatantly false, than something is wrong.

For example:

Playing regularly on the airwaves last week was a pitch, or several pitches, by the Michigan Education Association (MEA). The gist of their message was that a vote for any of the tax proposals on the ballot would be a vote for higher taxes and poorer schools.

To quote just one of the television mistruths sponsored and paid for by your state school teachers: "A vote for proposals H, J, or E, would result in higher taxes. The proposals are simply a rip-off attempt by business to reduce its taxes at your expense."

Now I'm not going to attempt to counter the MEA's ridiculous statements in this space. But I would point out that if your school teachers are not capable of telling the truth, how can we ever expect them to teach our children to be honest.

From beginning to end, radio and television spots paid for by the state's teachers, consisted almost entirely of half-truths, semi-truths, deliberately misleading information and outright lies.

And that's too bad.

If you want to live in the kind of a town, that's the kind of a town you like,
You don't have to pack your clothes in a grip, and go on a long, long hike.
'Cause you'll elsewhere find what you left behind.
There's nothing really new,
When you knock your town it's a knock at yourself.
IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN, IT'S YOU....
Real towns aren't made by men lest afraid that somebody else gets ahead.
If everyone works and nobody shirks,
you can raise a town from the dead,
And so while you make your personal stake,
your neighbor can make one too.
Your town will be what you want it to be,
IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN, IT'S YOU.....
ANON.

It's too bad that the very people entrusted with the minds of our future leaders have so little concern for truth and good taste.

Now we can all understand the concern teachers may feel for job security if they believe that the tax proposals could cost them their jobs. But why didn't the MEA apply basic teaching principle to the problem rather than engage in this demeaning form of misleading dialogue.

I don't know. But maybe the answer is that their basic teaching principles have been turning out graduates who can't read or write, and who would want to rely on such a faulty course when the issue was so very important.

Now I realize that I am painting teachers with a rather broad brush.

There are of course, many teachers who supported the tax proposals, but as long as the MEA membership is forced to go along with the decisions of its leaders who speak for all teachers, it is unlikely that the single voice will be heard.

Nor do I want it to appear that I am "dumping" on just teachers.

Many, many, other special interests who water at the public trough, are just as guilty of attempting to mislead the public. But it would seem that we could except something more from our teachers.

For the benefit of all those special interest groups who would subvert the best interest of the majority, I provide the above poem passed along to me by Richard Headlee, Voluntary Chairman of Taxpayer's United for Tax Limitation.

While most teachers view Dick Headlee as Genghis Khan reincarnate, I view him as a man concerned with his community, doing what he feels must be done to improve his society.

Bad journalism charged

EDITOR:

I protest your irresponsible journalism in the October 25, 1978, edition of the Enterprise Roman.

An article on page 3 reported that the Van Buren-Belleville Club "backed" the write-in candidates for Township Clerk and Treasurer. The article further used the words, "win support" and "already won" in describing the club's action of October 17, 1978.

The motion passed by the Club recognized these candidates. No support or backing was offered in the motion.

At the same meeting, the Democratic Club endorsed all electorate endorsed democratic candidates. You did not publish this fact. The club purchased an add for your November 1, 1978, edition attesting to our support of the nominees.

You have printed several slanted articles supporting the write-in candidate, presenting misleading facts and expressing the personal bias of your reporter.

You, of course, have the right to editorialize in support of your beliefs. But, disguising editorials as legitimate news items, must destroy your credibility as a responsible news gathering medium.

Dirty politics is here too

EDITOR:

We thought when we moved to Van Buren From Ypsilanti two years ago, that we had left dirty township politics behind. Our awakening from that dream came when we became subscribers to your newspaper, "The Belleville Enterprise".

Your detailed accounts of dishonesty in the police department, the public bickering of the Public Safety Commission, the towns clerk's vote to seat her husband on a township board, the accusations of candidates that (the) Sabdarly House was running the Town Hall — all these things have opened our eyes — WIDE!!

A very discouraging fact of all this is that some of these people are running unopposed — whatever happened to the two-party system in Van Buren?

Our disillusionment was furthered when our daughter — a recent E.M.U. graduate with all the proper credentials and references was refused, at least three times, an application for a teaching position in Van Buren.

The Board of Education (V.B.) minutes published in your paper showed seven or eight new teachers hired and more teachers needed. I noticed one of the newly hired teachers was the daughter of our Town Clerk, how I wonder did she manage to get an application, never mind hired?

Also, while I'm spouting off! The fine handling of the "Hardesty" affair by three non-township police agencies showed the excellent police services available to this township, never mind the also quick and courtesy service rendered V.B. when needed by the Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies.

I say — vote no — for a full time V.B. Police Dept.

Thank you for listening,
Virginia H. Mack

How come I don't feel old?

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

The clouds were rolling in on each other, and the falling leaves were being blown across the neighbor's lawns, when I got to my friend's home where we were going to play bridge.

For thirty-two years eight of us had been playing bridge together, except we had always played in the evening to get away from the kids and the diapers and the laundry and all of those things that women sell their soul for in order to spend the next twenty years trying to get away from. Now, no one wanted to get away from. "at our age..." they said.

"Wow, it's getting cold outside," I said stomping my feet and shivering, and seven faces rising out of wispy little crocheted shawls looked up at me.

"I haven't been warm since I was twenty-five," said one of the faces. "Let's play bridge." And all of the women drew their chairs up around the bridge table and began shuffling cards.

"Hey," I shouted. "Aren't we going to sit and gossip for awhile?"

"In the daytime?" Betty asked incredulously.

"We always gossip at bridge," I said. "And I have some real juicy bits."

"Save them for lunch," Sally said. "If we don't hurry up we won't get four games in."

"Four?" I said. "When did we ever play four games? Two is the most." "We're playing in the daytime, now," Jane said as she riffled her cards.

I had a hard time concentrating, because for thirty-two years I had never played bridge without the titillating experience of preplay gossip.

"At our age," Liz said, turning to me and noticing my disappointment, "we need to get as much bridge in as we can, since you never know whether you have another day coming to you."

"I love your home," I said to my hostess. "I always love coming here because it is so pretty."

"Oh thank you," she said, with her nose in her hand. "But I want to get rid of it. I want just a little house."

"With no woodwork," said Jane.

"No upkeep," said Liz.

"And in the south where it's warm, warm, warm," said Betty.

"At our age..." began Liz.

Suddenly I shivered. I was getting cold, too. I reached for my purse and took out my mirror. The wrinkles WERE getting deeper, and the pouches heavier. I closed the compact with a snap, and got out of there fast. I jumped in my car and revved up the motor and swirled out of the driveway into a bunch of leaves. Some of those leaves just lay there and let me run over them, but some made a valiant effort to whirl out of the way of the tires.

"That's me," I shouted to myself. "How come I don't feel old? How come my house still feels too small? How come I'm still planning on that mansion on the lake, and how come I hate sweaters and shawls?"

Ripping into my own driveway I tore through the open door. Fear gripped me. Fear that I had grown old without knowing it. Fear that my house was going to be too big.

As the door slammed behind me, George, (our dog) leaped from his bed of hair on the sofa and lunged at me, his tongue lapping all the make-up off my face, his hot breath enveloping me.

"You need Scope," I told him, pushing him away. On the chair were fifteen schoolbooks, two sweaters and a MacDonald Hamburger sack, still smelling like onions.

I followed a trail of shoes and socks to the kitchen, and sure enough, a jar of peanut butter sat wide open on the table, with the knife, dripping peanut butter, fallen on the chair.

Drawers were open and dish towels were hanging draped from them.

"Mom, mom," a young voice shouted down the chute. "Who cleaned my room today?"

"I did," I shouted back, thrusting my head up the dark enclosure.

"I knew it, I knew it," she wailed. "Now I can't find anything."

"What's for dinner?" a louder, male voice roared through the house, accompanied by the slamming door and the barking dog.

"Oh, thank you, God," I breathed as I leaned against the kitchen counter. "Thank you for making my house still too small, and thank you, thank you, for making me so dumb that I didn't know I was supposed to stop having kids after forty!"

And then I straightened up and started yelling.

"Don't you kids ever pick up anything? Don't you know you aren't going to always have a mother....."

By JIM BRADLEY

And so it is with most people in life, it seems.

It used to be a leader said, "I won't ask you to do anything I'm not willing to do myself." A leader in battle was usually the first one "over the top"; the captain went down with the ship; and the one in charge was willing to pay a greater price than those under him.

But today it's different. Just get by with what you can. Do as little as possible. Let those around you carry the load while you "go through the motions." That seems to be the order of the day.

And it's not just in the business world. It's all around us.

We parents, for example, are guilty many times of the same practice. We expect much more out of our children than we do of ourselves. We scold laziness on the part of our children and chide their unfinished tasks, but overlook the same slothfulness in ourselves.

We can see the mistakes of our children, but our eyes are blind to our own shortcomings even though years of experience should have taught us a wiser approach.

The same is true in just about every phase of life. The coach, for instance, wants his players to "pay the supreme sacrifice", offer their bodies for the "good of the team" and be an example to the rest of the squad.

Yet the coach will lose his temper and put on a disgraceful demonstration, curse out player and official alike, and exhibit the same bad habits he says will cause players to be kicked off the team.

In other words, he has a double standard. One for the players, another for himself. I know one high school coach, for example, who says his players cannot smoke, swear or lose their temper and put on a demonstration.

These are fine and commendable regulations and are to be congratulated. However, the coach does all of these things himself and his players laugh behind his back at his temper tantrums and inconsistency.

In other words, he demands more from his players than he does from himself. And you and I are probably just as guilty in our own way.

Each one of us needs to take a good, hard look at himself and ask one question — "Do I demand more from others than I demand of myself?"

I'm sure we'll all be surprised by our answer if we are completely truthful.

Health Beat

A visit to the administrator's office

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

If you take the time to give it some serious consideration, you'll probably early on realize that the health care industry faces many of the same problems faced by any other industry.

Health care delivery, and in this article we will make specific reference to hospital as opposed to nursing homes, free-standing clinics and the like, must have strong administrative capabilities if the hospital is to satisfy its responsibilities to the community.

"We've talked in many previous columns about some of the many professionals who comprise the hospital staff. Today, we are going to talk about a man who is generally invisible to most patients and visitors — but none-the-less, is one who provides on a daily basis vital inputs to the over-all efficient operation of Annapolis Hospital.

Wade C. Adams, MHA, has his office in the First-Floor, North wing of the hospital adjacent to the Administrator's office. Adams' official title is Assistant Administrator; his duties are varied.

He comes to the industry naturally, in that his father is a pediatrician who practices in Ft. Wayne, Indiana where Adams grew up and went to high school. After high school, he entered Indiana University where in 1973 he earned an A.B. in Zoology.

Unlike the sons of many physicians, Adams did not opt to follow his father and enter medicine; although, he did give very serious consideration to enrolling in a school of veterinary medicine. While an undergraduate student, he took two minors — one in psychology and one in business administration.

"I was pretty sure that medicine wasn't in my career plans," he said. "What I was really looking for was a field in which I could combine both science and business. I think I've found that profession in hospital administration."

While a student at Indiana, he was a teaching assistant and a lecturer in two laboratory courses. The money earned from these efforts helped put him through school; college expenses can be high, even for the son of a physician.

Adams entered St. Louis University (Missouri) in 1974 to start the two-year program leading to a Masters in Hospital Administration. Part of the MHA graduate program is a residency in an accredited hospital. Adams completed his residency at Pontiac General Hospital. He returned to St. Louis, and then in 1977 joined the Annapolis Hospital.

The year he was in St. Louis (1976) he was employed by the University, and he was one of the planners who helped open the medical school's ambulatory care and primary care clinics.

As Assistant Administrator at Annapolis Hospital, Adams is responsible for the operation of eight departments ranging from Alcoholism Therapy to Medical Records, Housekeeping, Dietary, the PCHA Central Laundry, Cardio-Pulmonary, EKG-Stress, and Security.

"It's a big responsibility, but I enjoy my work and realize a great deal of satisfaction from what I do," he said.

A major effort in the hospital, just as in any enterprise the size of Annapolis, is the preparation and administration of the annual budget.

There are some 1200 employees at Annapolis, and the payroll exclusive of fringe benefits, approaches 12-million dollars.

In addition to payroll dollars, decisions must be made regarding the purchase of new equipment, addition of new personnel, depreciation scheduling, and a myriad of other financial considerations. Adams is expected to provide expert input in the budget preparation process.

"When I first began working on million-dollar budgets, I was almost overwhelmed at the magnitude of seven-digit figures. Then, my post-graduate training exerted itself, and I realized that by definition a major hospital would have an annual budget in the millions of dollars.

Believe me, I don't casually dismiss the impact of the budget. I have to be convinced that the demands of our community will be better served before I'll recommend the addition of personnel or the purchase of a new service or item of equipment.

"There is a certain satisfaction, however, as I realize that some 70 percent of our budget goes right back into the community. Only a service-type industry is in such a position."

As we prepared to leave his office, Adams picked up a pencil, turned on his calculator, opened a voluminous book full of work sheets, and with a smile and a quick wink, again busied himself with the budget.

The lights will burn late tonight at Annapolis Hospital.

On the Brighter Side

'To thine own self be true...'

"This above all, to thine own self be true. And it shall follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

—Shakespeare

The blond teen age waitress struggled under the heavy load of full dishes she carried to the customers in her section.

She brushed back the blond strands of hair from her eyes and hurried to fill the empty coffee cups and fill other requests.

When she returned with our meal, she briskly poured the coffee again and set down the pot briefly on the table to catch her breath.

"Your service is really good," I said, sincerely praising her work and also trying to lift her tired, harried spirits. A gleam lit up her eyes and a smile creased her young features.

"Well, thank you," she replied, "that's nice to hear." Then she rolled her eyes upward in a circular fashion and said, "I'm not sure my boss feels that way."

She clearly indicated her supervisor was quite demanding and expected a great deal from each of the waitresses in the restaurant. But just my friendly comment of appreciation seemed to lighten her step as she hurried off to serve other customers.

"I wonder if the manager expects too much out of the waitresses and if they have too big an area to serve?" I asked my wife across our steak and clam dinner.

As an afterthought I added, "I wonder if he would be willing to work as hard as he expects the waitresses to work?" We finished our meal and left a larger tip than usual because of the girl's outstanding service.

But I couldn't help but wonder.

Just as that manager expected so much from his waitresses, I wondered if people expect more from others than they demand of themselves.

My wife and I discussed the matter briefly, but I couldn't help but dwell on it in the following hours and days. It seems we do demand more from others than we do of ourselves. We want others to put out to the fullest extent, while we most often just coast along at less than our best.

Many supervisors, just like the one over that teenage waitress, want their employees to work feverishly while they are not willing to do so. They "push" their workers, but they do not "push" themselves.

Sparks participates in Army restructuring exercise

Pvt. John D. Sparks of Romulus, an armor crewman with the Second Armored Division at Ft. Hood, Tex., recently took part in a field exercise to test the restructure of the Army division.

The test, which may determine the future of the Army's combat division, is part of the Division Restructure Study (DRS) that began in 1977. DRS calls for significant changes in the organization of combat units to meet two important goals — finding optimum organization for the new sophisticated weaponry that is now entering the Army's inventory and improving equipment and techniques currently in use.

DRS is the first attempt to restructure the make-up of the Army division in 20 years.

Sparks, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Sparks of Romulus, entered the Army in May 1978.

In the armed forces:

Navy Machinist's Mate Fireman David H. Adams, the son of Joseph R. Adams of Hull Road, Belleville, has completed the Basic Enlisted Course at the Naval Submarine School at Groton, Conn.

During the six-week course, he was introduced to the basic theory, construction and operation of nuclear-powered and diesel submarines. In preparation for his first assignment, he studied shipboard organization, damage control, and submarine safety and escape procedures.

He joined the Corps in January 1978.

Pvt. Daniel E. Woodruff, the son of Mrs. Shirley Grieve of Heyer, Romulus, recently received a Parachutist Badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, students undergo a rigorous physical training program and receive instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week they receive practical training by jumping from 34-foot and 250-foot towers. The final week includes five static-line parachute jumps.

Woodruff entered the Army last June.

He is a 1978 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, Wayne.

His father, Edward Woodruff, lives in Dearborn Heights.

Navy Seaman Donald R. Bolling, the son of Donnie R. and Jo A. Bolling of Exeter Road, Carleton, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in his studies were seamanship, close-order drill, Naval history and first aid.

A 1978 graduate of Airport High School, he joined the Navy in December 1977.

Bills against unemployment OK'd

Among the flood of legislation passed by the 95th Congress before it adjourned in late October were two major bills, co-sponsored by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District), who termed them as "vital weapons in the continuing fight against unemployment."

Both are expected to be approved by President Carter.

The two are the Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act of 1978, commonly known as the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, and reauthorization of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

Although weakened by the Senate, the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill still represents a significant step by the federal government in setting, for the first time, an established national goal in the battle for full employment, Congressman Ford said.

The legislation calls for bringing the national unemployment rate down to 4 percent within five years and authorizes the President to draw up a year-by-year timetable for the purpose.

Congressman Ford noted that the Senate had diluted the full force of the bill by tacking on additional economic goals, some virtually impossible, including zero inflation within five years.

"The important thing is that we have established a framework which can be strengthened in future years to establish a workable national commitment," Congressman Ford said. "Our ultimate goal is to provide a job for every American who is willing and able to work."

The CETA legislation extends this important jobs program for another four years, and adds some new standards to guard against widely publicized abuses which had threatened the program's future.

Congressman Ford said that the bill assures federal funding of additional public service jobs whenever unemployment reaches dangerous levels and expands existing programs to provide on-the-job training for unskilled and semi-skilled workers.

States and local governments will be eligible for funds to fill some 275,000 temporary positions designed to train such persons, who are not qualified for existing jobs.

The legislation also will fund an estimated 400,000 public service jobs, based on current unemployment figures. The number of these jobs to be funded will rise and fall with the national unemployment figures.

Cheered on

Toy safety categories set items as squeeze toys, blocks, stuffed toys, teething and crib exercisers. Any item such as these would automatically be banned from sale because of its small size, if it fit entirely into a truncated cylinder measuring 1 1/4 inches in diameter by 2 3/4 inches in depth.

Any part that came off a toy after it was given simulated rough treatment to see if it would break and expose a hazard would separately be subjected to testing with the cylinder. It too would be banned, if it fit completely within the device.

According to CPSC staff, only a small portion of toys and other children's items would have to be redesigned to comply with the proposed regulations. In part, this is because the trade association Toy Manufacturers of America, has set voluntary standards that incorporate safety requirements similar to the proposal. TMA members produce about 90 percent of the dollar volume of all domestically sold toys.

The proposed rules would not cover items specifically intended only for use by children older than 3 years. Nor would they apply to all items that the very young group might have access to in the household.

Exempted from coverage under the proposal because of their utilitarian or educational value would be articles like children's clothing and accessories, modeling clay, fingerpaints, marbles, balloons and crayons.

Youngsters of parents attending Wayne County Community College's Downriver Regional Center, now have a place to go when Mom or Dad is in class. It's a new campus Children's Center. The center offers a "humanistic" child development program and includes dual programs for children of 2 months to 30 months of age, as well as those 2½ to 5 years. The learning areas include specifically designed equipment and creative environments for day-care children, nutritionally balanced meals and an observation room where parents can see their children in a variety of learning situations. Toasting the recent grand opening of the center were Shelley Marsh (from left), 3, Martha Chavis, Serita Rames, 4, and Chuck Stanfield, 4.—ANP photo.

WCCC's Children Center relates to college program

"We couldn't be happier." That's the word from Arlene Altman over the opening of the Children's Center at Wayne County Community College's Downriver Regional Campus. According to Ms. Altman, director of the Children's Center: "The tradition of the mother's role being the dominant one in this kind of setting is becoming a myth; many fathers are just as interested in contributing toward their children learn, as well as what they do, while enrolled with us." The Children's Center features special services in its high quality, "humanistic" child development program, including dual programs for children two months to 30 months, as well as those 2½ to 5 years of age. Learning areas include specifically designed equipment and creative environments for day-care children, nutritionally balanced meals and an observation room where parents can observe their children in a variety of learning situations. The Children's Center also relates directly to the college's child care technology program, using the center as a laboratory for students training at the center, as well as job placements for graduates trainees. "As an institution we have made a commitment to quality child care services at all of our major regional facilities," said Dr. Reginald Wilson, president of WCCC. "These programs have been developed with our students in mind, who have children of their own, as well as those of our diversified communities." The Children's Center has an optimum capacity of 46 students at any given time, is open to student-parents, as well as the community, and offers "flexible scheduling" built around parent schedules. "Our parents and I are hopeful that eventually the Children's Center hours will be expanded into early evening time," said Ms. Altman. "Of course, scheduling is dependent upon the demand for these services. To date, however, community response has been excellent." Further information concerning child care programs contact Ms. Altman at 287-9080.

Residents question choice of location of foster home

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

A proposal to build a home on Hunter Drive in Westland to house six mentally retarded men in a community environment brought about 50 local residents to a Westland City Council study session Monday night. What originally had been planned as a study session between the council and representatives of the Department of Mental Health, turned into a public hearing. Residents questioned why their neighborhood was picked, who would be running the home and how the occupants would be supervised. Although the meeting was, on the whole, well controlled, it was apparent that the undercurrent feeling of the audience was to reject the idea of such a foster care facility in their neighborhood. The fears generally associated with such a home were apparent at the meeting. They worried about their property values, although the Mental Health representatives tried to assure them that studies have shown that values do not decrease. A few expressed apprehension that the home would be located near an elementary school and park where their children played. At first, it seemed that the residents were worried that the retarded occupants of the home might somehow jeopardize their children. Then residents turned the argument around and said that Jaycee Park, located across the street from the home, is a place where rowdy youths gather. They said that the youths might harm or tease the retarded persons. They said they were even afraid that their own children would tease the home residents. After more than two hours of the audience questions, fielded by Jim Glick, director of the alternative intermediate services of the state Department of Mental Health, the session ended. The council promised that no building permit for the home would be issued until at least one more public meeting is held. However, as Councilman Charles Griffin pointed out at the end of the meeting, the Department of Mental Health really doesn't need city permission to locate in Westland. As long as the zoning is appropriate—which it is—and as long as there isn't a similar foster care home within 1,500 feet of the proposed place—which there isn't, state law permits the use. Licensing is done through the Department of Mental Health, and Department of Social Services. The law, dated January 1977, is designed to encourage the "de-institutionalizing" of retarded persons who are now living in places like the Northville Training Center or Plymouth State Home. The law states that such residential foster care facilities cannot be excluded by zoning requirements of a city, and that state licensed residential facilities which house six persons or less shall be considered appropriate for a residential neighborhood. There is at least one city that is currently challenging that law by its refusal to issue a building permit.

Rep. Bob Law (R-Westland, Livonia) was at Monday night's meeting and noted that the City of Taylor refused the building permit. The Department of Mental Health has asked for an attorney general's opinion, but hasn't received it yet. The Alternative Intermediate Services (AIS) program is a relatively new department within Mental Health. Unlike other programs, it does not place residents in existing homes that have been remodelled. It builds new homes especially designed for the program. The house proposed on Hunter would be located on the second lot east of Apache. It would actually be a bit larger than the other homes in the neighborhood—about 1,800 square feet. Glick stressed that the residents will be mentally retarded, not mentally ill or juvenile offenders. The residents will be supervised constantly, with at least two staff members on duty when the residents are up and around. However, he stressed, each of the residents will be gone during the weekdays, either attending school, or working at sheltered workshops for the retarded in the area. The proposal calls for a private contractor to build the $75,000 home, then lease it to the state. The state then will hire a non-profit management company, in this case R. Roberts Residential Services Inc., to run the home. The manager would be given a certain budget to run the house, hire staff, insure that the residents get any special support services they need, and such. Ray Roberts also was at Monday's meeting. He explained to the residents that he has worked at the Northville Training Center since 1973, and has an extensive background of working with mentally retarded persons. He has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in psychology. Funding for the AIS program and this house will come from the state and federal governments. Glick estimated that it will cost approximately the same amount to house and care for the residents in the home, as it does to house them in the institution. At the home, they will work on skill development, self help and self care. Glick said that a similar home is planned in Inkster, where he just recently did obtain his building permit. The AIS has identified at least 30 sites for potential homes in Western Wayne County communities. The council and representatives of the program were somewhat surprised at the turnout of local residents. Roberts had sent a letter to all the homeowners last week explaining very briefly the program. The next step was to be a follow-up telephone call from Roberts or a member of the AIS board of directors to each resident, explaining further. Then there would be a public meeting in the neighborhood. had gotten permission from Good Shepherd Church at Hunter and Wayne-roads, for a meeting to be held there. However, residents heard about the Monday night study session, apparently through a flyer sent out by a resident in the area and came to the meeting.

The representatives of the Department of Mental Health AIS program had the above-mentioned community education plans readied so that neighbors could be informed with all the facts. After the community uproar experienced in other cities over similar projects, the representatives are painfully aware of the need to meet and talk to neighbors to assuage the usual fears, although in reality they need no neighborhood or city "permission" to move in.

Glick said that it has been the usual experience that once a home is built or renovated, and occupants move in amid a brouhaha, within a few months when the turmoil has died down, the neighbors find the retarded persons to be good neighbors. The audience appeared less than convinced, however. The meeting at Good Shepherd Church will be held, within the next several weeks, Roberts said.

Naturalist Bob Hotelling will present a 2-hour program of discussion and observation of waterfowl. Dress for the weather and bring binoculars. The group will probably be driving to various sites within the park to locate the birds, so meet at the nature center building. Registration is required as are vehicle entry permits — (annual regular, $5, senior citizen, $1, or daily, $1. PCHA demonstrates commitment to sound management

Once again the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) has been able to demonstrate a continued commitment to sound financial management.

That was the report presented to the PCHA Board of Directors by Fred Feters of the CPA firm of Arthur Young and Co.

According to Feters, the authority, despite the costs associated with the opening of Heritage Hospital in Taylor, was able to fulfill its obligations and carry more than $2.1 in equity for the years.

The recent audit showed that wages, salaries, and fringe benefits paid to employees were better than $50 million for the period ending June 30, 1978.

The authority's five hospitals—Annapolis in Wayne, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Seaway in Trenton, Heritage in Taylor and Outer Drive in Lincoln Park—showed an average occupancy rate of 78.3 percent, a figure which includes the early low-occupancy days experienced by Heritage Hospital following its opening.

With Heritage Hospital now in full operation, the average patient census is in the low to mid-80 percent range, a clear indication of the need to put Heritage in place when and where it was, Feters said.

More than 193,000 patients were seen on an outpatient and emergency basis, and there were 43,712 adult inpatient admissions during the fiscal year. The authority supports 1,240 beds, including the 30-bed mental health service at Heritage Hospital.

There also are 3,345 full-time equivalent employees in the five hospitals.

In keeping with current trends, the board agreed to establish an Audit Committee as a standing panel of the board, comprised of individuals with expertise in auditing procedures. The committee will review and make recommendations to the Board of Directors with respect to the hiring or termination, plus the scope of work of the outside auditing firm engaged to audit the PCHA financial statements for the current fiscal year.

This new committee of from three to five members will comprise a majority of board members, plus qualified experts who are electors of PCHA member communities but who are not members of the Board of Directors.

Board members will submit names of outside candidates to the chairman of the board who, with the consent of the full board, will make the appointments.

The introduction of non-board members to a standing committee of the board is a first for PCHA.

Roger J. Remer, board treasurer from the City of Flat Rock, explained that such committees are becoming common in both public and private institutions. He emphasized that the committee would be advisory in nature. Under the provisions of state law, final decisions must be made by a board vote.

Interest/Checking Plans. What they are. What they aren't. Are they right for you?

What they are.

You've been hearing a lot lately about the new Interest/Checking Plans that are available to bank customers. These new plans have come about because of revisions in Federal banking regulations that permit banks to automatically transfer funds from a savings account to a checking account with the customer's prior approval. With this change two new benefits are available to bank customers. They are:

- The Interest/Checking Plan combines the features of a $0 balance checking account with those of a regular savings account. With it 5% annual interest can be earned on the money you would normally keep in your checking account. As checks are written, funds are automatically transferred from savings to checking.
- The other new plan assures protection against the occasional checking account overdraft by drawing on funds in an especially designated savings account.

These advantages may sound good to you and they can be. But before you decide to sign up for either account, read a little further.

What they aren't.

First of all, the Interest/Checking Plan is definitely not for everybody. Accounts offered by most banks will carry a different level of service charges than in the past.

To understand the reason for this, it will be helpful to know the two basic ways in which a bank compensates its customers for the use of their funds. Up to now the majority of bank customers have received "indirect interest" on their checking account; that is, the amount paid in service charges was probably less than it cost the bank to service the account, especially if the customer kept a relatively small balance and wrote a great many checks. In absorbing this cost, the bank has really been paying "indirect interest."

Under the new Interest/Checking Plan customers will be earning "direct interest" paid at a fixed rate for the use of their money. Because of this, your bank will be more likely to charge for the expenses incurred in servicing checking accounts. Typically, this charge will be a fee for each check written plus a flat fixed monthly charge for the statement. The bank may also establish an average balance above which service charges are waived. This method of charging for the service is not too unlike some methods presently used. However, the level of charges and required balance can be expected to be somewhat higher than in the past.

With this explanation of the Interest/Checking Plan you may wish to evaluate its advantages from your own particular situation.

Are they right for you?

Evaluation is largely a matter of comparing what the new service will cost you in charges and fees with the amount you will earn in interest on your deposits. Just follow these simple steps:

INTEREST/CHECKING WORKSHEET

1. Determine the number of checks you typically write each month.
2. Figure the amount of checking service charges you would pay each month. (To compute this, determine how much your bank will charge for each check and the monthly statement charge, if any. Multiply the check charge by the average number of checks you write. Finally, add the statement charge to get your monthly service charge.)
3. Estimate your average checking account balance. (One easy way to approximate this in many cases is to add the beginning balance on your statement to the ending balance and divide by two.)
4. Estimate the interest you would earn in one month. (Multiply your average checking balance by 5% and divide by 12.)
5. Subtract your service charges from the amount of interest earned.

If the amount of interest earned is less than the service charge, you will not benefit. If the amount of interest is greater than the service charge, the plan may be to your advantage.

If the comparison above indicates that interest/checking will not be beneficial, you can continue with your present checking account plan or you may want to make some adjustments in the way you manage your money by following these simple suggestions:

- Combine the balances from other checking and savings accounts. This may give you the necessary funds to cover your checking account charges. A larger average balance in your interest/checking account assures a greater return.
- Pay as many bills as possible through pre-authorized automatic payments, reducing the number of checks you write. Examples include payments on mortgage and installment loans, and insurance premiums.
- Arrange with your employer for direct deposit of your paycheck into your savings account. Since all the money is deposited and probably sooner, it will earn you more interest.
- Avoid writing numbers of small checks for minor purchases—miscellaneous groceries, hardware or drug store items. Instead, write a single check for the amount of cash you know you will need.

Even though you've analyzed interest/checking, and perhaps have not found it suited to your needs, there is still the Overdraft Protection Plan to consider.

This plan simply covers overdrafts in your checking account—up to the balance in your savings account—by automatically transferring funds from savings to checking as needed. A minimum balance is required by some banks and a fee is normally charged for each such transfer. This plan's principal advantage is to eliminate the embarrassment and inconvenience of returned checks.

If you have further questions about the plans described above, or if you would like to inquire about the Interest/Checking Plan and Overdraft Protection Plan offered by National Bank of Detroit, stop in at a nearby NBD office. One of our representatives will gladly help you determine what is right for you.

Fire, explosion level police officer's home

City and state fire officials suspect arson as the cause of a $36,000 fire early Oct. 27 that destroyed a

Westland police officer's home on North River Park Drive in Inkster. State fire inspectors reported they found carpeting in the living room and bedroom saturated with flammable liquid and believe the fire was deliberately set, totally gutting the residence of Rick Lucka, a patrolman with the Westland Police Department. No one was in the house at the time of the fire.

"We don't have any idea who did it," said Inkster Fire Marshall Robert Shepard, "but we have every reason to believe that it was arson."

Shepard said the Inkster Fire Department received the first of several calls at 1:06 a.m. Friday and arrived on the scene at 1:09.

"When the firemen got there, the house was engulfed in flames, and it did approximately $26,000 damage to the house, totally destroying it, and did about $12,000 damage to the contents of the house," he said.

According to fire officials and neighbors, a loud explosion rocked the house shortly after the fire started in the early morning darkness.

Two of the neighbors who heard the explosion and saw the flames were Mrs. Shirley Billingslea and her daughter, Glynda, 22.

"I was lying in bed reading a book and had just finished a chapter when I was undecided whether to continue reading, watch TV or go to sleep," said Mrs. Billingslea. "All of a sudden I heard this odd noise, almost as if my daughter had fallen out the window and knocked the window fan with her. I ran to the foot of the stairs and called to Glynda in her upstairs bedroom to ask if she was alright."

"She said she was okay. Then I saw the flames next door through the window. I ran to the phone and in my excitement I called the police instead of the fire department. Then Glynda and I started alerting the neighbors all around us of the fire because we didn't know when our house might go up in flames."

Shepard said the fire started on the west side of the Lucka house, which he said is owned by Lucka's father, John.

"It started in the living room and bedroom, we believe, and the explosion blew all the bricks off the west side of the house," Shepard said.

The fire spread to the Billingslea home and did extensive damage to the side nearest the blaze.

Shepard said he immediately contacted the state fire marshal's office and they sent two inspection experts to the scene Friday. They investigated thoroughly and found the flammable liquid in the carpet in the living room and bedroom, he explained.

"They have sent samples of what they found to the state police lab," he added.

"We thought it might be the gas company's fault but they checked the gas line from the service line at the road to the gas meter and from the gas meter to inside the house and all lines checked out okay," the fire marshal said.

Charred ruins

These dramatic photos graphically portray the total destruction of the Lucka home on North River Park Drive in Inkster. Suspected arson is the cause of the $26,000 blaze that reduced the house to charred rubble. The top photo, shows the hole blown in the living room wall by the explosion and reveals the damage caused to the Billingslea home next door to the east.

Romulus gets bus service

Public bus service has come to the City of Romulus.

As of last Friday — Nov. 3 — the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) has been providing bus services for the community residents.

A special ceremony was held late last week at the Wyandotte Savings Bank, located at Ecorse and Merriman roads, to inaugurate the new service.

The Romulus service is part of an extensive SEMTA service expansion plan for fiscal 1979. The authority will be adding more than one million additional miles of bus service during the year.

Service in Romulus will operate during the morning and evening peak hours and on Saturdays. Morning peak hour buses depart from Ecorse and Merriman at 6:12, 6:52 and 7:22 a.m. Service terminates at the Renaissance Center in downtown Detroit. An additional fourth morning bus will depart from Ecorse and Beech Daly at 8 a.m. Evening buses depart from the Renaissance Center at 4:34, 5:04 and 5:34 p.m.

There is one morning trip on Saturday, with one return trip in the evening.

For timetables of the new Romulus service (Route 140) call SEMTA Schedule Information at 962-5515, or toll free 1-800-462-5161.

MRS. CURT D. CULLIN

Cullin-Manikas wed

October vows exchanged at St. Nicholas Church

A 10-day honeymoon in Hawaii and California followed the recent ceremony which joined Katherine Manikas of Ann Arbor and Curt Douglas Cullin of Belleville in holy matrimony. On their return the newlyweds took up residence at 84 Carmell, Belleville.

Some 400 guests were assembled for the five o'clock nuptial rite conducted by Fr. John Paul at St. Nicholas Church in Ann Arbor. Sprays of autumn mums adorned the altar as the young couple exchanged marriage vows and wedding bands.

The October 28 ceremony united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manikas of Scio Church Road, Ann Arbor, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cullin of Columbia Avenue, Belleville.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose for her wedding day a toe-touching creation of Georgette chiffon embellished with antique lace and seed pearly, the appliques framing the scoop neckline and cuffs on the long, fitted sleeves. Sweeping into a chapel-length train, the skirt, too, was frosted with lace appliques.

Cut in fingertip length, her lace-banded illusion veil was held by a lace Camelot cap. Completing her bridal ensemble was a cascade bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Two honor attendants and four bridesmaids preceded the bride up the white-carpeted aisle. Shannon Rupp came from Chicago, Ill., and Nancy Susterka from Laramie, Wyo. to serve in the honorary capacity. Their coral pink gowns styled with blouson bodices and matching lace shawls, were the same as those worn by Carole Whitledge of Hale, the bridegroom's sister; Lydia Rosenfeld of Los Angeles, Calif.; Kate Kolokiphas of Las Vegas, Nev., and Angelina Knopholtz of Ann Arbor.

Their semi-cascade bouquets were comprised of rubrum lilies, pink sweetheart roses and English ivy.

Appearing in frocks of coral eyelet over taffeta were the two flowergirls, Jennifer Maheras, three, the bride's cousin, and Wendy Whitledge, four, the bridegroom's niece.

The bridegroom asked Niko Manikas of Ann Arbor, brother of the bride, and Barry Susterka of Laramie, Wyo., his cousin, to share the duties of best man. Groomsmen were Brad Susterka, another cousin from Belleville; Carl Cullin, a brother from Louisville, Ky., and Ron Hink and Jeff Fry, both of Belleville.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Manikas selected a silver grey crepe gown accented with beading while Mrs. Cullin, the bridegroom's mother, donned a turquoise chiffon gown in formal length. Both were presented with orchids.

Roma's of Ann Arbor was reserved for the dinner-dance reception which followed. Some 400 relatives and friends were on hand to congratulate the young couple.

An employee of Sports Illustrated Court Club of Belleville, the new Mrs. Cullin is a graduate of Pioneer High School in Ann Arbor and Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Her husband, an alumnus of Belleville High School, is employed by Ron Hink Construction Company.

The Douglas Cullins played host at the rehearsal dinner held at Weber's Inn of Ann Arbor.

BPW reports blood bank results

The results of the annual Belleville Community Blood Bank held recently at Belleville High School auditorium were very gratifying, according to a spokesman for the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) which sponsors the unit. Recruits for the event were secured by phone and postal card by members of the BPW who contacted former donors and many new candidates from the Belleville, Romulus, Canton, New Boston, Willis and Ypsilanti areas for a total of 218 pledges.

The net result was 158 pints of blood donated for future use by residents. When there is a need for blood, it will be available at no charge; however hospitals will charge for administering the transfusion.

Eva Luper, blood bank chairman, and the BPW extend their appreciation to Drawitte Co., Webb Forging, Horst Manufacturing, Willow Run Rubber Co., the many churches in the Belleville area and all the individuals who participated.

Also Karen Tomey, Adah; Denise Welt, Ruth; June Hawkins, Ester; Ruth Hall, Martha; Mary Grover, Electa, Juanita Akers, warden, and Walter James, sentinel.

The newly installed Worthy Matron was presented her gavel by her husband, Joe Parker. P.M. Eva Lupher presented Elizabeth James with her Past Matron's Jewel and P.P. Vincent Goodnuff presented Walter James with his Past Patron's Jewel.

At the Past Matron's ceremony around the altar, the retiring Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron signed the Bible and the Junior Past Matron was invited to join the Association and presented with a gift. The new Worthy Matron was invited to be their guest for the year.

Following the repeating of the Mizpah Benediction led by the Chaplain, refreshments were served in the dining room.

If those pre-holiday "dream books" are pouring into your mail boxes as regularly as they are at our house, you're probably spending a lot of time doing mental Christmas shopping.

Aren't some of the things gorgeous (and outlandishly priced?) Wouldn't you just love to quit being so practical, go a bit wild and order an elegant piece of sculpture, China or crystal from Downes Showcase or one of those smart pieces of luggage from the Wilkinson catalog?

Lord and Taylor is again tempting us with frivolous items — bits of fluff that our girls would LOVE to find under the tree. (And there are a couple suspicious checkmarks in that booklet since Carol's visit home last weekend.)

Ganto's has several glittery and enticing items to offer and the Cricket Box's listings would need a museum to house them.

Nieman-Marcus has yet to arrive and what they'll feature for Christmas-'78 is probably beyond your wildest imagination. One year it was his 'n hers oilwells (no kidding!) and another time the bait was twin safari trips. Ho hum...

Miles Kimball of Oshkosh (by gosh) has been visiting our house ever since our first year as newlyweds, when I ordered unique (and what I thought clever) jigsaw puzzle greeting cards to send (and frustrate) friends. Kimball's is fun for stocking stuffers and last year supplied me with many an unusual item — personalized book plates, monogrammed gold seals for letters, coin sorters, chemically-treated cloths for icy windshields, address labels, personalized business envelopes, etc.

And timing, in this instance, was the key. Fr. Skoney, from Wisconsin courtesy those cheese-sausage-fruit-candy salespeople such as The Swiss Colony. Half-page, full-color photos of baskets bursting with the aforementioned. Soup tureens, chafing dishes, bread boards, cheese domes, omelet pans — all cleverly packaged with the Badger State's reknown products.

I actually drool over each page and fantasize receiving one of those delightful packages some day.

Hudson's, Jacobson's, Marshall Field's (and perhaps a few new surprises this year) have yet to arrive, so then we can start all over again, revamping our own personal lists as well.

time in the right place. To know a pope that I met personally. Once in a lifetime."

And timing, in this instance, was the key. Fr. Skoney, who won the Fr. Farrell Award (an annual accolade) was sent to the Holy City for 10 weeks of study on a continuing education program.

What an education! Not only did he witness that thrilling wisp of white smoke from the Vatican chimney, attend the installation with choice seats arranged by John Cardinal Dearden of Detroit, take part in the special mass celebrated by the Pope for the people of Poland but then — he's MET the man who's now leader of the world's millions of Catholics. Whew!

CHEERS: To the Belleville merchants who daily sweep and/or hose down the walkways in front of their establishments, showing the pride they feel in their city.

JEERS: To their neighbors who thoughtlessly neglect the litter lining the sidewalks. Fourth between Main and Liberty (just one example) is a disgrace with its broken glass, empty pop cans, cigarette packs and debris.

Help! Having made the decision (finally) to buy a new set of cookware, I am now stumped as to what KIND. I'm certainly tempted by the many bright and colorful new sets but — club aluminum, cast iron, copper, stainless steel, Teflon — what material?

So, pots 'n pans experts of the area, send me your suggestions or endorsements — please.

We all enjoy pampering our loved ones and here's a sure way of pleasing the folks at your house — this recipe for a really super breakfast entree.

When the kids come home I enjoy spoiling them just a trifle and try to fix whatever they might've missed and daydreamed about. Last weekend when Carol was home for the first time since her sophomore classes began, she hinted, very broadly, that she could go for some of my homemade pancakes.

I say "my" pancakes, but in all fairness I have to direct credit to a gal who was featured as one of my Cooks of the Week when I ran that series a few years back. Among her contributions, Larinda Ritter gave me her recipe for "Delicate Fluffy Pancakes" which, she said, were always served when her family gathered at their cottage.

They take a little time but, oh-h, that lightness (egg whites are folded in) is well worth avoiding that lump-of-lead feeling which packaged mixes produce. When you feel the urge to surprise your crew, here's the secret.

DELICATE FLUFFY PANCAKES

3 eggs, separated
1 and two-thirds cups buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons cooking oil

Beat egg yolks well. Add dry ingredients. Blend in oil and then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve with your favorite syrup and sausage. Or, try the Southern method and sprinkle on a mixture of granulated sugar and cinnamon. Dee-licious!

THE BOTTOM LINE: An apology is often the best way to have the last word.

A continental touch

Your passport for an exciting "Evening in Paris" on Nov. 10 is now available at the YWCA of Western Wayne County. The World Mutual Services Committee, headed by Joyce Palmer of Romulus, has arranged an exotic evening with French Consul General Yves Coffin as honored guest. A punch bowl reception at 7 p.m. will be followed by dinner and dancing from 9 to 12 p.m. A special feature this year will be a Parisian dance group for dinner entertainment. Tickets for the formal evening are available at the YWCA office at 26279 Michigan Avenue for $10. For further information, call Mary Willoughby at 561-4110. Three members of the dance troupe, Betsy Paull, Aldo D'Orazio and Julie Paull (wearing costumes) are shown with Joyce Palmer, dance chairman, (second from left) and a member of her committee, Susan Kemp (second from right).

TOPS contingent at KOPS graduation

Twenty-one people from TOPS Mi 380 Belleville attended the 22nd annual KOPS graduation at the Masonic Temple in Detroit on Oct. 22.

The area TOPS group (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) was cited for a loss of over 2,000 pounds. Contributing to this total were four KOPS (Keep Off Pounds Sensibly) from Mi 380 in Belleville: Sue Dolph with a 38-3/4 pound loss; Sandy Medos, 30 1/2 pounds; Martha Brown, 24 1/2 pounds, and Mary Ivan, 6 1/2 pounds.

Eight other TOPS members and some of their husbands attended including Rose and Ronald Schnepf, Bette and Jack Burgett, Kathy and Jim Darnell, Betty and Matt Hrabowsky, Carol Caudill, Ellen Hospital, Dolores Abeldt, Ross Medos, Dave Brown and daughter, Amy, Jerry Dolph, Greg Ivan and TOPS leader Helen Girard.

Some 98 KOPS candidates graduated from the Detroit area under the supervision of coordinator Catherine Terzes.

Two of the husbands attending, Ross Medos and Ron Schnepf, were so impressed, that they decided to join TOPS themselves. It is hoped that even more guys and gals in the Belleville area will take this as an incentive to join TOPS. You, too, can graduate at the 23rd annual KOPS graduation.

For further information, call Helen Girard at 697-4370.

Joey Gilkerson holds Sweetest Day title

JOEY GILKERSON

Joey Angela Gilkerson, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gilkerson of 4413 Rustic Lane, Belleville, was crowned "Little Miss Sweetest Day" on Oct. 21 at a modeling competition held at the Adrian Mall in Adrian.

In the program, sponsored by North American Pageant System, Joey was required to model a back-to-school outfit and have a personal interview with a panel of judges.

This was the first competition Joey has ever entered and now qualifies her to compete for the title of Little Miss Michigan in the spring.

This is not the first winner Belleville has produced. In 1977 Gail Whitt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Whitt, was crowned Little Miss North America at a national pageant. Gail since has gone on to a semi-professional career in modeling, having appeared on television commercials and in photography ads.

Joey is not only interested in the field of modeling but also takes an active interest in dancing. She is presently a student of the American Dance Academy of Garden City.

Local merchants thanked by Moose for party donuts

The Loyal Order of Moose, Belleville Lodge No. 934, served hot dogs, cider and donuts to nearly 1,000 little ghosts and goblins on Halloween, Oct. 31.

Doug Harden, Civic Affairs Chairman, wishes to thank the following merchants for their generous donations which helped make this evening a success:

Belvil Bakery, H.R. Stinehour Realty, Romulus Recreation, Belvil Automotive, Sparkey's Electric, Doug Hardin, Belvil Deli, Bella Hi Pizza, A. Mart Vacuum, Zimmer Texaco, Rochon & Wilsey, V.F.W., Belvil Transmission, Douglas Carpet, Kurth Fashions, Moss Bros., Andrews Drugs, Hamilton Hardware, Mel's Cleaners, Jacobs Boots and Saddles and Wassman Orchards for the donuts.

There were several prizes given for the best costumes; sorry we didn't get the names. A special thank you to Rick Coke who entertained the children all evening dressed in his all-head, no-body costume.

Dates to mark on your calendar include: enrollment of new members on Nov. 11, 6:30 p.m. with dinner and dancing following; WOTM cake walk Dec. 2; and Polish dinner and dance, from 5:30 to 8 p.m., Dec. 9.

MR. AND MRS. MARK S. THETFORD

Couple take motor trip

Colorado is destination for newly wed Thetfords

Candelight set the mood for the October 14 ceremony which united Jane L. Reinhackel and Mark S. Thetford, both of Belleville, in holy matrimony. The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was reserved for the six thirty rite officiated by The Rev. Joy Arthur. Some 400 relatives and guests witnessed the double ring wedding.

Gwen Ashe was at the organ to play traditional wedding music and to accompany soloist Stan King as he sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reinhackel of Haggerty Road, Belleville. Mrs. Floyd Thetford of Denton Road, Belleville, and the late Mr. Thetford are parents of the bridegroom.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, Jane appeared in a princess line gown of white satin applied with lace and seed pearls. The same trim was used on the oval neckline, on the long bishop sleeves and on the chapel train which was drawn up into a bustle for later festivities.

A little lace cap in crescent shape secured her fingertip veil which was outlined with hand-clipped lace while a bouquet of cascading white roses completed her bridal finery.

Denise Patterson of Belleville, a life-long school friend of the bride, was chosen to be maid of honor. The trio of bridesmaids included Vanessa Hall of Belleville; Ina Pietz of Vincennes, Ind. and Janie Venis of Belleville, the bridegroom's sister.

Their matching ensembles featured peacock blue gowns with spaghetti strap bodices and chiffon capes fastened at the neckline. They wore miniature blue-tipped white carnations in their hair and carried bouquets of white roses and blue-tipped carnations.

The bride's 4-year-old cousin, Meg Lanstra of Grosse Pointe, wore a little frock of peacock blue polyester with a floral cape for her role as flowergirl. She held a basket filled with blue and white daisies and tucked matching blooms in her hair. Ringbearer was another of the bride's cousins, Keith Beddow, four, of Deford, Mich.

The bridegroom asked his bride's brother, Glenn F. Reinhackel of Belleville, to serve as best man. Others on the esquireside were Stan King, Larry Orr and Ron Venis, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, all from Belleville; and Craig Lanstra and Ron Taylor, cousins of the bride and bridegroom, respectively.

At the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne where the reception was held, some 450 guests were greeted by Mrs. Reinhackel in a mint green polyester gown with a matching chiffon overblouse. Mrs. Thetford chose for her son's wedding a gown of rose-beige polyester with a companion cape. Both mothers were honored with white orchid corsages which they wore on their wrists.

The newlyweds, who are now living in Belleville, motored to Colorado for their 2-weeks honeymoon.

Both graduates of Belleville High School, the Thetfords are employed at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. The bridegroom attended Central Michigan University.

Therehearsal dinner, given by the bridegroom's mother, was held at Nickerson Farms in Belleville.

Rafalski-Cullen plan spring vows

MISS RAFALSKI

Diane Rafalski of Belleville and Michael Cullen of Wayne are engaged and making plans for a spring wedding.

Their engagement and altar date are announced by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rafalski of 18456 Martinsville Rd., Belleville, parents of the bride-elect.

A 1974 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Rafalski is currently working for Sumpter Township.

The prospective bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cullen of 3332 Williams, Wayne, graduated from Wayne Memorial High School in 1973 and is now employed by Chatham's in Livonia.

The young couple plan to be married April 28 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Resident caught in nostalgic mood

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was contributed by Park E. Gregory, resident of Belleville and former teacher at Belleville High School. His reminiscences take him back to that November in 1944 when the country was still at war, rationing was in effect and the little town of Belleville was awash with autumn sunshine. "Oldtimers" in the area, we decided, might enjoy a bit of nostalgia while newcomers might learn something about the layout of Main Street as they follow the writer in his early a.m. stroll some 34 years back.

By Park Gregory

Saturday morning, the sun is bright, quite warm for November. The leaves are all down and Fred Miller is burning a pile of them in front of our apartment at his place on Church Street.

I walk down Third Street past the old Belleville High School Building where Luella Leonard supervises the elementary school. I'll cross the street here, but watch out for the mud.

A stop at the post office on the corner to pick up the mail, and Frank Prais says it'll be a while yet before a post office box will be available. Hope someday we can have mail delivery.

Next door Harold and Orlo Roberts are putting a new sofa into the window. Now that's something we need.

Doctor Tator must be in, the lights are on above his dental chair. Living above the office in his new building is smart business.

I've got to stop at Kirk Pitcher's shop for a trim. Someone is telling that plane production at Willow Run is up by one more plane per month.

Walking toward downtown I see Dr.

Robb leaving his office. It's great that he can get unlimited gasoline. With our "A" stamps allowing us four gallons a week we don't travel much.

I've got to stop in at Bert Spriggs drug store for a soda. Just a conversation with Bert gets the day started right.

I see Andy Krebs at his desk. He just renewed my car insurance, but at $25 a year I wonder if I can afford to drive.

At Peoples State Bank Henry Deering takes care of my deposit. I see Frank Clark in his office at the back.

Harry Agge is just going into the Township Building. I wonder if he was very busy over Halloween.

Harry Wilson must be in his shop. The forge seems to be running and I can hear the clang of the anvil.

Robson's Garage is busy with repairs but I wonder when Paul and Aubrey will have new cars again. Not while the war's on for sure.

The Zannis Bar and Bowling Alley are quiet this morning. Now — on past a house that burned out, Chevy garage, some little shops, Madelyn's Beauty Shop, Garlick's Barber Shop, and the restaurant on the corner of High and Main.

Beyond the Masonic Temple is the Detroit Edison office where Lester Hanna takes my bill and marks it paid.

Bunyea's Shell station is open and George is sweeping out. Just beyond is Bunyea's store which leans a little toward the lake.

Across Main Street is Price's new Huron Electric building. Maybe someday he'll have a refrigerator I can buy. Rumor has it that after the war Russell will build some more store buildings between his place and Harold Cullen's Standard station. Harold is pumping gas this morning and waves.

The bakery on the corner next to Hamilton's certainly smells good this morning.

I'll get a pound of No. 6 nails from Hamilton's. Silas and Dick are waiting on customers.

Silas says we are about due for a snow.

Next door at the C. F. Smith store Grace Burnell weighs out a pound of spinach for me and I get a dozen eggs. Val Dorsten is waiting on customers too.

Barney and Joe Kott have some sharp fall shoes in the window. Alton is washing the windows.

Howard Kirk helps me select some cold pills at his drug store. That's a big modern store for Belleville.

I'll pass the men's clothing store and stop at the Ben Franklin Five and Dime. Earl Bosteder jokes about me buying a spirit level. I assure him it's on the level.

Passing John Rice's Dry Goods the next stop is Kroger's where I get three pounds of Walt Noll's good lean hamburger. At three pounds for a dollar meat is high and it uses up the red ration stamps, too.

On past Thorne's Jewelers and the City Market with the roof over the sidewalk to Shunk's Cleaners to pick up my dry cleaning.

Across Fourth Street at Beard's Book Store I stop to see if any new books are in.

John Tackman at Belleville Hardware is talking with a customer in the doorway. It's warm enough to have the door open.

I'll step into the Laurie Shop and ask the Kureths if my wife has been in this morning. She was, earlier.

Maggie Hope is washing windows at her house and Blanche Walters is raking leaves. Carl Phillips at the Sinclair Station is greasing a car. With an oil change and grease job needed every thousand miles it does keep the station busy. Well, back across Main Street, down Third and home again. The old town just doesn't change much.

League-Goodwills' Junior Group hosts 31st antiques market, sale

The annual antiques market and sale, sponsored by the Junior Group of League-Goodwill, will mark its 31st year when it opens for a three-day show, beginning Nov. 11 at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

250 artists join in winter art fair

More than 250 artists will participate in Audree Levy's fifth annual Ann Arbor Winter Art Fair to be held this weekend at the University of Michigan Track and Tennis Building on Ferry Field.

Ms. Levy found her love of art from painting. The new found interest in her life motivated her to enroll in the Society of Arts and Crafts, in Detroit. After completing the curriculum, she began painting professionally. She exhibited in hundreds of major art shows, and received a number of awards. After many years of showing her works, it became apparent to her that there was a need for art shows to have a director with an artist's background, a show tailored to the needs and viewpoints of an artist. In the summer of 1969, she organized her first art show on an empty lot in the city of Ann Arbor. A handful of artists participated, and so what began as a simple art show evolved into the highly professional and sophisticated fair known as the Ann Arbor Winter Art Fair.

Fair hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Parking on Ferry Field, which is located on State Street near the University of Michigan Stadium and Crisler Arena, will cost $1.

This year, 56 outstanding dealers from 14 states and England will be on hand to help make the show the largest that the group has held. They will be exhibiting quality 18th and 19th century American, English furniture, primitives, glass, jewelry, prints, silver, Staffordshire, pewter, tin, spatter ware, dolls, nautical accessories, primitive lighting fixtures, quilts, toys and other fine items.

There will be an emphasis on affordables — those items of quality that can be purchased by collectors who do not wish to make a major financial investment.

This year the boutique will feature a New England Colonial Doll House completely furnished including antique reproduction furniture, petit point rugs and numerous accessories complete with its own Christmas tree. The lucky owner will be determined by a drawing on Nov. 13. Tickets will be available at the show for $1 donation.

Also featured is the Wishing Well where people may purchase chances to win such antique treasures as a Victorian chair with needlepoint seat, oriental rug, an early American signed tiger maple flintlock rifle circa 1800-1810, and a very rare early 19th century original etching of Franz Schubert printed on silk and hand colored.

A cookbook, featuring casseroles plus a new book cover, will be offered for sale. The casserole section is the second part of what is planned as an on-going project with new chapters being added each year for the show.

Showgoers will have an opportunity to sample some of the soups and casseroles in the Calico Kitchen which will feature meals daily. On Sunday, a delicious "antiques" brunch will be available.

Kitchens have been bustling throughout the summer as members canned more than 1,000 jars of specialty goods for the Pantry Shelf. Patrons will be able to select from more than 20 types of jams, jellies, pickles and sauces, some which used our blue ribbon recipes from the Michigan State Fair.

Proceeds from the market, the major fund raiser of the Junior Group, are used to benefit the clients of League-Goodwill.

Showtimes are Nov. 11 and 12 from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Nov. 13 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Who us?

George Christopher Kappaz and Cynthia Dozier play an actor and actress in "The Critic; or a Tragedy Rehearsed" at the Hilberry Theatre. The Sheridan play appears on a double bill of farces with Moliere's

"The Doctor in Spite of Himself", which opens next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. Ticket and complete theatre schedule information is available from the Hilberry box office at 577-2972.

Antiques lectures highlights Orient

Tomorrow's Henry Ford Museum Antiques Lecture at 8:30 p.m. will examine how the influences of the Orient and the West mingled in the production and design of porcelain and other potteries — often in ways not immediately apparent to the collector.

example of this intermingling, Dr. Macht will examine wares that combine Oriental materials and Western motifs. There will be numerous other historical — and even some modern — examples of such crosscurrents.

Dr. Macht is senior curator and curator of decorative arts at the Cincinnati Art Museum and is responsible for the care, preservation, exhibition, research, and acquisition of all furniture, tapestries, silver, ceramics, glass and other related arts at the museum. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Goucher College and received her master's and doctoral degrees in the history of art and archaeology from Johns Hopkins University.

Admission to the lecture is $3. Special tickets covering the 1978-79 season of seven lectures cost $18.

The lectures cover a range of topics, including "Inside the Homes of the Rich, the Poor and the In-between in Victorian America" by Kenneth L. Ames, teaching associate, the Henry Francis du Pont Winterthur Museum, on Dec. 7; "Arts of the Federal Period: The Neoclassical Impulse," by Wendell D. Garrett, editor and publisher, The Magazine Antiques, on Jan. 11; "A Dollar House is No Bargain: A Personal Preservation Experience," by Charles V. Hagler, director of civic affairs, General Motors Corp., and his wife, Katharine Bryant Hagler, curator of furniture, Henry Ford Museum, on Feb. 8; "A Not-So-Perfect Likeness: Pictures as Documents" by Jay E. Cantor, head of the American Picture Department, Christie, Manson and Woods International, Inc., on March 8; "Lacy Glass: Eastern, Midwestern and French" by Lowel Innes, author, lecturer and collector, on April 5; "Henry Ford Museum's Furniture Treasury" by Dr. Donald A. Shelley, immediate past president of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, on May 10.

Sassafras Trails: W-W's classroom 'au natural'

By DEE RYAN
Special to ANP

Is sassafras your cup of tea? Don Howarth brews the fragrant tea daily at Sassafras Trails, Wayne-Westland Community Schools' nature center.

Don heads the center, and his tea is just one of the many things you'll enjoy at this museum of natural history.

Open from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, this would be a fine week to visit Don and his assistant, Todd Tinkham. And be sure to congratulate them while you're there.

Because of their efforts Sassafras Trails received a special award. At a banquet in Lansing recently, Keep Michigan Beautiful Inc. gave the center a Michigan Plaque for Outstanding Service. They hope for a similar honor from Keep America Beautiful Inc.

Both the Michigan and national chapters of the Audubon Society, singled out Sassafras Trails for high praise earlier this year. Accounts have appeared in the society's publications.

Last spring, the Yellow Crowned Night Heron nested at Sassafras. The heron is not native to Michigan, in fact, this rare bird has been sighted just three times in our state.

For joggers

Large, the Heron stands 2½ feet tall, and is feathered in speckled gray. In bright contrast, a bold yellow comb adorns its head.

The two men, Howarth and Tinkham, who achieved these awards for our community deserve much appreciation.

Let's take a closer look at this splendid resource in our midst. We'll start in the museum — after a cup of sassafras tea, of course.

As we look at the artifacts, housed in the Wilson school, the item that'll grab your attention immediately is an immense slab of redwood. Measuring 6 by 5 feet it is 8 inches thick. This huge slice of tree was the generous gift of the Hillyard-Reiser Lumber Co.

Trees increase in girth annually by adding a cylinder of tissue just inside the bark. This yearly process leaves rings, which are counted to determine age. Rings on the redwood indicate the tree was 650 years old when it heard the cry "timber," in 1928. That means that when the tree was in its first years, Marco Polo was meeting with Kublai Kahn in China — 1275.

The Hillyard-Reiser Lumber Co. acquired the redwood in the 1930's. Seems they'd ordered a shipment of California lumber. It arrived safely — the mammoth piece of redwood, placed on top to keep the lumber securely in place.

Other contributions include a collection of invertebrates — animals without backbones. This is the gift of Fred Ribbits. Mrs. Florence Richard once owned the collection of mounted butterflies, and the rock collection was a gift of the Ron Headlands. It consists of fossils, volcanic rocks, arrowheads and minerals, such as quartz.

And finally we have Beebe — a guinea pig. Beebe had to leave her happy home as the darling of a fifth grade class, because one member was highly allergic to her. Beebe has adjusted nicely.

Naturalists of all ages can see petrified woods, pretty shells and a garden of assorted cacti. There are pelts from skunk, racoon, red fox and muskrat.

Ask to see the gigantic animal tooth. It's about six inches long, as thick as my wrist and... mean looking — as though it had chomped long and hard.

Many schools, Scouting troops, service clubs and individual contributors have sustained the nature center, which has had to depend on donations to stay open. We'll talk more about that later.

Right now it's time for Part Two of our field trip — the Sassafras Trail itself. If you'll follow me, we'll head for the great outdoors.

On the trail, one of many in the 55-acre preserve, this one is called the "Blind Trail" and along its route is a "Sensory Garden." Planned for those without sight, it's the creation of a man with much insight, Todd Tinkham.

Here's how it works.

At intervals along the wood chip trail, is a cement slab. A blind person, upon reaching the cement, knows it to be a signal. He's been told that at the edge of the cement there'll be a signpost in Braille. The signpost tells of a special tree bark a spikey bush to feel, or a fragrant plant to smell.

Then it's back to the woodchips until another cement slab is reached, and the process is repeated.

Reaching the special garden, we understand why it's called "Sensory." The plants and herbs within can be enjoyed by touching, smelling and tasting instead of seeing. The edibles include chives, lemon balm, peppermint and spearmint leaves, along with nasturtium leaves, tasting horseradish-y. For touching, there are plants of different textures. Some leave their fragrance on your hands.

Sassafras trees grow in profusion along the trails. From its bark and roots come that drink, immortalized by "westerns." "Give me a Sassa-parilla." The more familiar Root Beer also comes from sassafras.

Aromatic refreshments aside, the sassafras tree as a whole does not inspire confidence. It sports leaves having five different designs. The idea of a tree being identifiable by the shape of its leaf can't be applied to the sassafras.

Through donations, such as the $100 given by Pat Kiester's Girl Scout Troop No. 59, Howarth has been able to buy the skis. The nature center now has 21 pairs of them, all in children's sizes.

Howarth assures us that skiers will not damage the environment. They'll only use trails having a "safety" level of snow — five inches.

A jogging trail also is part of the 55 wooded acres. It's open from dawn to dusk. On the north, or the Palmer Roadside of Wilson School, you'll see an asphalt path leading to the woods. Follow it, and jog, baby, jog.

This is not your ordinary jogging trail. Called a paracourse, it consists of a series of exercise stations along the way. The stops include chin-ups, toe touch and balance beams.

Sassafras Nature Center is a legitimate "classroom." Both the museum and the trails provide an ideal supplement to textbook knowledge, a place where children may observe the wonders of nature first hand.

Trails' end

Don Howarth, head of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools' nature center, Sassafras Trails, pause at trails end to speak with Charlene Zubok and members of her fourth grade class from Hamilton Elementary School. The class is one of 15 such groups that have visited the nature center this year. Sassafras Trails is located along Palmer and Wildwood roads, near Wilson School.

Women: Status improves

Despite a century to extend women's rights and improve their status, progress has been relatively slow.

Today in the United States and Canada, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, women represent 52 percent of all college and university undergraduate students and about 40 percent of the labor force. However, men still dominate all fields except for service and clerical positions.

But if you think women's status needs improvement now, consider what the World Book has to say about the situation over the past several thousand years.

In ancient societies, most women married and began raising children soon after reaching puberty. They remained at home, received no formal education, and had little economic or social power.

Later, as Christianity spread through Europe, women lost much of the freedom they had had under Roman law, where they had been highly respected, managed household affairs, and moved freely through the city to attend public functions.

It took the Industrial Revolution to bring women out of the kitchen, but the move was rooted in necessity rather than altruism. There was a shortage of men.

Five-week course deals with stress

Stress is not new, people just never used to discuss it openly, according to Dr. June L. Sears, Michigan State University Extension home economist.

She said "that stress is any change in your life that you cannot adapt to or modify easily. It may be positive or negative. These characteristics about ourselves determine to a great extent how well we handle stress".

Each of us is a unique combination of genetic, cultural, social, family, psychological and economic characteristics.

Dr. Sears will be teaching the class, "Coping with Stress", at the Henry Ford Centennial Library, 16301 Michigan Avenue, Dearborn, on Wednesday evenings, beginning tonight through Dec. 15 for five weeks. The class will be from 7 to 10 p.m.

She believes stress is normal and predictable and an underlying part of life. During the class she will provide necessary background for understanding diagnosing the problem and offer some simple methods for taking control of personal stress.

Registration fee is $5 for the five-week class. For more information call the Family Living Education Department of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension office at 721-6565 or 66.

Tolson wins state cross country title

DOUG TOLSON

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Getting excellent cooperation from the weatherman, Doug Tolson climaxed an undefeated season on Saturday by capturing the Class A state cross country championship. The 16-year-old Wayne Memorial junior thus became only the second runner in Wayne's long history to win the coveted state crown. "I'm tired, really tired," said Tolson to his coach Ernie Righetti after finishing the three-miles in the winning time of 14:47.4. "I've never been as tired as this before."

Righetti said that there had been a lot of pressure on his young protegee "and that could have led him to become drained both physically and mentally." "Doug was favored to win here at the state," Righetti continued, "so all eyes were on him. He didn't run a fantastic time because I feel he was exhausted mentally - knowing what was at stake and with all that pressure on him. But I as well as the entire school am very proud of him." Tolson's closest competition came in the form of Jackson's Todd Snow (Continued on 3rd Sports)

Glenn rips Wayne, ends near perfect season

The Sports Meridian

Quotes for here and there

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Floyd Carter believes that the traditional Wayne Memorial-Westland John Glenn football clash should be switched to the beginning of the season instead of leaving it till the last.

"We meet them when we're banged up from league play, playing seven straight tough conference foes," said the Wayne mentor. "And that takes a pretty big toll in injuries."

"I feel that the game should start the season when both teams are fresh and I feel that it would be a much better contest then," Carter offered.

One of the probable reasons for that suggestion is that Wayne has dropped the last five of the eight Fall Classics and usually Wayne gets off to an excellent start. In the past the Zebras have had streaks like four and five games before floundering in the stretch.

What does Chuck Gordon, who has a personal 2-0 record over the Zebras, have to say about Carter's suggestion.

"That's a slap at our league - I feel that our league is as good as any across the state. Our records will hold up against any around."

"But, I'm always willing to listen, especially when it concerns football," Gordon said.

Gordon doesn't know it, of course, but the Sports Meridian lost a heap of lunches because of his 28-0 victory over the Zebras last Friday. Yeh, I like betting on the underdog - and Wayne was definitely the underdog Friday.

What I can't understand is why Carter and his Zebras would "spot" my minion from Westland a couple of touchdowns then try to catch up.

You know like when the score was oh-oh in the final minute of the first half and Wayne comes out passing. Why, oh why, didn't they just eat up the time and go into the locker room and discuss a 0-0 deadlock instead of trying to figure out how to erase a 7-0 deficit.

Glenn may have not known it but Wayne had possession of the ball for approximately seven minutes of the first period and actually had the momentum until that crucial turnover.

Anyway, if Carter's strategy had worked he would have been a genius - and when it didn't - it helps fill up this space.

The second 'gift'. That punt bouncing off of the Wayne player and then Glenn getting the TD on the first play from scrimmage—hope Gordon realizes that I'm going to have to declare bankruptcy now.

"Poor" Armand Vigna.

The veteran Livonia Franklin football coach has always been a winner...until this year. Vigna, whose 1974 edition won the first "real" Class A state football championship (until then it was "paper championships" determined by the polls) suffered through a 3-6 won-lost season, his first losing season ever.

"It was hell," Vigna said. "Now I know how it feels to be a loser - and it doesn't feel good."

Belleville, which has taken huge lumps of losses on the football field, may have found the formula for producing a winner.

And the Tigers can thank assistant Coach Tom Fielder.

Fielder talked to his 1-7 team before the Ypsilanti game and told them: "Go out there and have fun. I don't want any fighting or unsportsmanlike conduct - take your defeat like a man."

The Tigers scored 34 points - more points than they had scored all season. Unfortunately, their arch-rival, Ypsilanti put 55 points on the scoreboard.

And George Sommerman, the Glenn girls' basketball coach, has attacked us for not giving girls more space on these pages.

According to an article that appeared in the October 27 issue of the John Glenn "Echo", Sommerman is quoted as saying:

"That the Eagle flatly refused to print the girls' basketball schedule and reluctantly gives the team space in the sports pages for the results of their games."

Of course, this is news to me.

Sommerman and his colleagues have a tough job and if there is anything we can do to help we will. All he and his colleagues have to do is contact the sports desk (729-4000) and give us the information.

When the story doesn't appear in the paper, then he should come out and blast away, editorially.

Ruark sets record

John Glenn's outstanding tailback, senior Tim Ruark, was held to 75 yards in 20 carries Friday by a fired-up Wayne defense, but the slender 170-pound speedster still broke the Rockets one-season rushing record by rolling up 950 yards on the ground. Ruark, who shattered Jeff Preston's mark of 920 yards set in Glenn's perfect 9-0 year of 1976, was the backbone of Coach Chuck Gordon's attack all year. Glenn turned three Zebra mistakes into touchdowns in routing their inter-city rivals, 28-0, before a jammed stadium at Glenn Friday night. Ruark drives for yardage here as Mike Mason (20) (nearest Ruark) and Skip Walker zero in on the elusive Rocket record rusher.

Pats end 'worst season ever'

Franklin edges Bentley

"It was one heck of a game from a spectator's point of view," said Franklin Coach Armand Vigna after his Patriots shook loose a 31-26 victory out of cross town rival, Livonia Bentley.

"But it's games like these that gives coaches ulcers."

The season-ending victory enabled

Franklin to finish with a 3-6 over-all record, its worst in over a decade.

"We really took our lumps this year," said Vigna, "but, fortunately we have six returning offensive players and an equal number of defensive players coming back next year."

Franklin's senior runningback

Jerry Cifor capped an outstanding grid career by scoring three of the Patriots' touchdowns and rushing for 225 yards in 22 carries. That exceptional game brought his season's rushing total to 963 in 118 tries for an 8.2 average.

Cifor started things off with an

Cougars wrap up season

With three different players scoring, the Belleville Cougars ended the freshman season with an 18-0 victory over Plymouth Canton.

Danny Zieler, Derrick Dowling and John Andrews scored TDs for the Cougars.

Ronnie Dunn and Mike Cameron sparked the Junior Varsity unit to a lopsided 41-6 trouncing of the Lions as each had two touchdowns. Andy Winnie and Jerry Unim each scored once.

The Lions however came back and won the varsity match 14-0.

Green light

Making a last-ditch attempt to bring down a Riverview ballcarrier, Romulus noseguard, Shawn Green (33) flies at the runningback. Green was a standout on defense as he contributed 13 tackles in last Friday's season finale. Romulus however was forced to settle for a homecoming setback, 21-14, against a team that is highly respected in the tough Great Lakes 8 Conference.

5,000 see Rockets roll, 28-0

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

"Not nearly enough has been said about the John Glenn defensive unit this year — they're great."

That was the assessment of most Rocket followers after the Westlanders polished off arch-rival, Wayne Memorial, 28-0, in the annual Wayne Fall Classic.

Some 5,000 fans gathered for this the eighth meeting of the two teams and Glenn continued its domination of the series, extending their winning streak over Coach Floyd Carter's Zebras five consecutive years.

Rocket defenders indeed deserve most of the accolades as they have racked up six shutouts in nine starts and have limited their opponents to a paltry 22 points for a one-season record low.

Finally, Glenn defenders set up three Rocket touchdowns Friday night in a game that was much closer than the 28-0 score would indicate.

Glenn has now won 32 of its last 36 games over the past four years, a year which is among the best in the mark - but the playoffs still elude the Rockets.

Glenn Coach Chuck Gordon pointed out, "that anytime you get a shutout, the entire defensive unit plays a great game. They (Wayne) did some things early to move the ball on us, but our kids hung in there

Belleville leaves its best for Ypsi

Not good enough — Tigers bow, 55-34

Despite their dismal 1-7 record, Belleville showed neighboring Ypsilanti, the reigning South Central Conference champ, that it is a team to be reckon with. Coach Tom Fielder's Tigers put on their best offensive display of the season, scoring more points in their last game than they did all season in accepting a 55-34 setback at the hands of the visiting Braves. "We played well," said Fielder,

"but the defense - our sore spot all year - just wasn't there. If we had any kind of defense we would have made a better game of it."

Ypsilanti carried a 6-2 record into last Friday's game and had to struggle and rally past the hosts who held a 28-27 halftime margin.

It was Buddy Powell who hurt the Tigers. The shifty runningback chalked up three touchdowns and 176 yards rushing to spark the Braves.

Ypsilanti scored on the first play of the game after the kickoff, but the Tigers, led by quarterback Jim Krause who was making his first start in that role, masterminded a 60-yard drive that ended with runningback Barry Reddick's four-yard touchdown run.

The Braves came back and scored, again on a Powell run and maintained a 14-6 lead entering the second quarter. In that quarter, Belleville erupted for a total of 22 points, a recent record.

Kevin Guenther scored from one yard out and a Jim Krause to Dave Cook pass, good for the two-point conversion tied the game at 14-14.

Kause and Paul Arnett collaborated on a 14 yard TD pass that gave the Tigers their third TD and Reddick scored his second six-pointer of the evening to account for all of the Belleville scoring in the first half.

Powell came up with a touchdown with seven seconds left in the half to close the game to 28-27.

But Belleville couldn't get its offense untracked in the second half, while Ypsilanti struck for a touchdown in the third quarter and exploded for 20 points in the final 12 minutes of the season to seal the victory.

Brian Brinkerhoff, playing his final prep game, scored the final Tiger TD on a 22 yard run.

Reddick contributed 90 yards in 18 carries, including the two TD, while Kause, hurt late in the game, connected on seven of 11 passes for 84 yards and one TD.

Standouts on defense - not this time.

"When you give up 55 points, you know there are a lot of people missing assignments out there," Fielder said. "Basically that's the way the season went - we had the offense, but there wasn't any defense."

Tolson captures 'A' state crown

who kept within the champ's range, but never caught him.

Snow was clocked in the second best time of 14:51.9.

Tolson duplicated the 1972 accomplishment of Walt Nowak who became the first Wayne runner to reign as a state cross country champ.

Despite Tolson's super effort, Wayne finished 19th teamwise. Brighton won the state championship with 85 points, followed by Grand Blanc (96) and Royal Oak Kimball (193).

"We finished back in the field because of injuries, but we have a lot of young kids on this team, including Tolson, and we'll be back next year."

Earlier in the week, Tolson won the Great Lakes 8 Conference title, but the Zebras lost the conference crown to arch-rival Fordson by one point. The Dearbornites had a total of 24 points, while the defending champ, Wayne had 35.

Paul Spencer, running with a injury, finished third in the league, while Zebras Mark Michalowski and Andy Stopcinski were eighth and ninth, respectively. Don Wellman contributed a 14th place and Joe Tonna was 15th.

Fordson had beaten Wayne earlier in the year, handing the defending champs their first dual meet setback in the league for nearly three years.

"Guess it just wasn't meant for us to beat them this year," Righetti commented.

Riverview ruins Romulus homecoming

Note to Bill Hardy, Romulus athletic director: please schedule more games for the home field next year.

Romulus came home last Friday for the second time in eight games and showed a homecoming crowd that it was no pushover - they gave a highly-thought-of Riverview a lot to think about before bowing 21-14.

"I'm proud of these kids," said Don Foley who ended his rookie year as head coach with a 3-5 record. "They improve with each game and it's a shame that they were cheated out of a season last year."

(Romulus didn't field a football team a year ago because of the lack of funds.)

Riverview, coming off of an impressive victory over Wayne Memorial, needed a second half rally to shake loose their fifth win in nine starts.

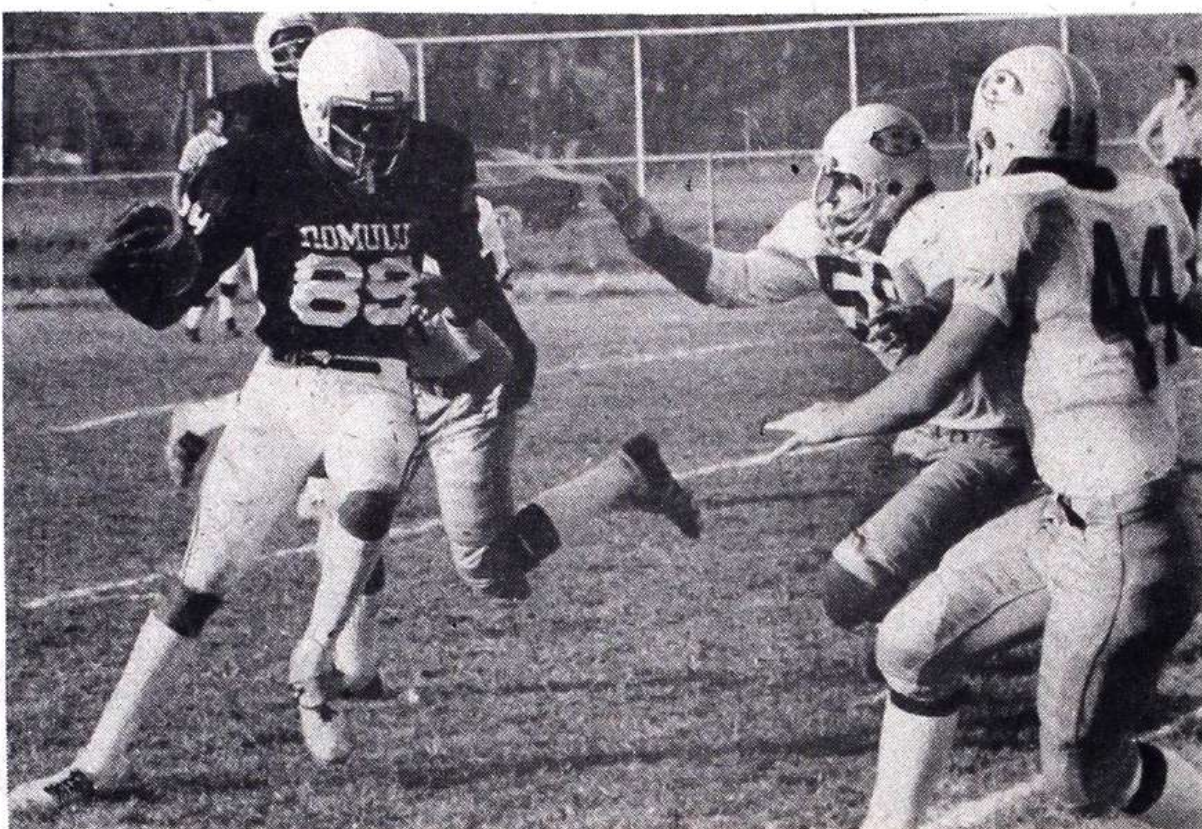

Riverview looked as if it was going to blow the Eagles off the field as the Pirates took the opening kickoff and marched 74 yards and scored on a 33-yard sprint by Murray Mayosas.

That Riverview drive ate up more than six minutes of the first quarter. Riverview missed the point after, after a series of penalties forced them back.

Romulus tied the score with seconds left in the quarter. John Bozelak sacked the quarterback on a third and seven setup, and the Pirates were forced into a punting situation. The snap from center sailed over the punter's head and into the end zone and he tried to run it out, but Richard Holt nailed him, forcing the would-be ballcarrier to cough up the ball. Bozelak recovered the ball in the end zone for the touchdown.

Richard Lewis was given the opportunity to give the Eagles the two-points but he was stopped short of the goal line.

Romulus took the lead in the

Bean and the Pirates

Closing in fast on Romulus' Vince Bean (dark jersey) are two Riverview defenders who had problems stopping the elusive Eagle griddler last Friday. Bean managed to get by the Pirates for a 79-yard touchdown run and also made another superb reception, but Bean and his teammates' efforts were wasted as the downriver crew spoiled Romulus' homecoming festivities, 21-14.

second quarter, with two minutes left till intermission.

Quarterback Duane Parker teamed up with Vince Bean on a sensational 79-yard pass-run touchdown pass which included some timely blocking by Michael Johnson at the 20-yard line.

Lewis, spun off a tackle and found his way into the end zone for the two point conversion, lifting the Eagles to a 14-6 lead.

But Riverview came back and tied it up in the third quarter on Bruce Bishop's one-yard run and a Bishop pass for the two point conversion. An earlier bad snap by Romulus set up the TD.

Riverview then marched 58 yards in 12 plays that ended with Bishop's second TD sneak to break the deadlock and give the Pirates the victory.

Romulus came back and threatened during the closing minutes of the season thanks to a pass from Parker to Bean which kept a drive alive that ended at the Pirate 16.

Lewis rushed for 51 yards in 13 carries and Parker hit on four of eight passes for 120 yards and Donald Grandison made good on one toss for 21 yards.

John Kersey, who accounted for 22 "hits" - 11 tackles and 11 assists, along with Shawn Green, with 13 hits and Les Bergasasy led the Romulus defensive corps.

Last-game victory boosts Franklin to a 3-6

exciting 54 yard touchdown run midway in the first quarter, then Don Boka booted his first of four point-after.
Bentley came right back at the Patriots and scored on a 17-yard pass from quarterback Dan Crowder to Joe Race, climaxing a 65 yard drive. But the Bulldogs missed the extra point, leaving them a point shy of tying it up.
Franklin wasted little time and they countered with their second TD of the quarter. On the second play from scrimmage after the kickoff, Cifor again broke loose, this time traveling 60 yards for his second score of the afternoon.

Boka again came through and with 1:39 left, Franklin was ahead 14-6.
But the Bulldogs clicked during the next series and again the Crowder to Race combination paid off on a 48-yard scoring pass play. With 22 seconds left, Bentley's Jess Lemieux booted the extra point to make it 14-13.

In less than six minutes, the two teams had scored four touchdowns. Franklin came back with a drive that withered on the Bulldog 21 where Bentley intercepted and took over at the 34. Crowder had the Bulldogs on the board 12 plays later with a five-yard TD run and Bentley also took the lead, 20-14 into the locker room.
Franklin quarterback Jon McCarty engineered a third quarter, 10-play drive that took the Patriots to the Bulldog one where Cifor bullied over for his third and what proved to be his last TD as a prep. Boka's conversion gave the Northwest Suburban representatives the lead 21-20.

After a Bentley drive stalled, Franklin took over and made it to the Bulldog 25 where Vigna called for a field goal and Boka made good on a 41-yarder. Boka has successfully kicked field this year from the 42, 34, 39 and now 41.

After a Bentley turnover, Franklin scored its final TD on a McCarthy sneak which capped a five-play 55-yard drive.
Crowder caught the Franklin secondary asleep in the last quarter and burned it with a 62-yard pass to Mike Burdette for the Bulldogs' final TD.
Bentley attempted an onside kick and, though Franklin recovered the ball, the Patriots gave it up via a fumble on the second play from scrimmage. Bentley's final drive was mired in penalties and the Bulldogs gave up at midfield where the Patriots ran out the clock.

McCarty had an excellent game with 62 yards in nine carries to compliment Cifor's outstanding individual performance.
"But it was a disappointing season over-all," said Vigna. "We were close a couple of times in games I felt we could have won - but we played some real good people."

Not a second to spare

Romulus' Donald Grandison gets off this punt just in the nick of time as a Riverview defender rushes in for the block. Grandison's heroics help keep the Eagles in the close game as he turned a bad snap from center into a 21-yard pass reception, with Michael Johnson on the receiving end. But Riverview managed to rally and ruin the Eagles' homecoming ceremonies 21-14 in the season's curtain-drawer for both teams.

Quarterfinals set for 1:30 p.m.

Churchill to test North

Livonia Churchill is two victories away from the Class A state football title.
And the first obstacle for Coach Ken Kaestner's Chargers will be undefeated North Farmington who received who received an opportunity to prove it is the best "A" team in the state thanks to Detroit Northern.
Northern destroyed Detroit Northwestern's chances of making the playoffs by edging their city rivals, 8-0, in an overtime game that determined the Detroit Public School title.
A Northwestern victory would have placed it instead of North Farmington in the playoffs.
Churchill's ticket to the playoffs was a relatively easy 33-0 victory over its cross-town rival, Stevenson, which had won seven straight before bowing to Westland John Glenn, then to Kaestner's Chargers.

"We know that North has a lot of speed in its backfield," said Kaestner, "and our job will be to stop and contain their backs."
"North has an exceptionally fine team and the match-up will be an interesting one."
The two teams will meet Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Berkley High Field. The winners of the quarterfinals will advance to the semis, scheduled for November 17-18 at eight separate sites across the state.

The survivors will head for the Pontiac Silverdome on Saturday, November 25 where the state titles will be up for grabs.
Defending Class A state champ Birmingham Brother Rice, which also backed up into a playoff berth, is favored to retain the title. Rice will meet Birmingham Groves at Groves High School in the first round Friday night.

Glenn rules Wayne for 5th straight year

Gordon went on to say, "that the key was, anytime we did get a break, we capitalized on it."

Wayne Memorial's Floyd Carter also praised Glenn's defense for its toughness.

"We thought we played three real good quarters of football and I think our defense played extremely well," Carter said, who wrapped up his seventh year as head coach with a 5-4 record.

"We should have had a better record this year, and we definitely should have beaten Riverview. We're a better team than they are, and I also don't believe that Glenn is 28 points better than we are, although they deserve everything they got Friday night and deserved to win."

Carter pointed out that Glenn stopped Wayne from running inside, "and we had to go to the air as a result." That's where three breaks turned the tide for the hosts who were given all they could handle by the Zebras.

In fact, Glenn scored with only two seconds left in the first half on an interception. Punter Jim Demaray, whose punting kept the Zebras pinned deep in their own territory most of the night, set up the Rocket touchdown.

He booted a 47-yarder that Ken Liedel downed on the Wayne two-yard line with less than three minutes before the intermission.

Wayne held on and with 25 seconds left Carter called for a halfback option pass on the Wayne 34-yard line. Glenn's Andy Pucci foiled the surprise tactics with a midfield interception and raced down the sidelines to the Wayne five yard line with just eight seconds left.

On the first play from scrimmage, Glenn quarterback Rob Suida fired a bullet over the middle to end Brad Jennings for the go-ahead touchdown. Then, Kal Deluca converted on his first of four perfect point-after.

"I still thought we could win when we went into the locker room at intermission only one touchdown behind," said Carter afterwards. "But every time we got down close to their goal line, they made the big play or we missed hitting the open man."

Two breaks led to Glenn's second and third touchdowns.

One of Demaray's punts took an odd bounce and hit a Wayne player in the leg and Glenn fell on the loose ball on the Wayne 31 yard line.

Switch in Canton, Mott cage game

Because of a Parents' Conference at Plymouth Canton High School on Nov. 9, the scheduled girls' basketball game between Canton and Waterford Mott has been switched to the Plymouth Salem Gym.

There is no change in the time, however. The Western Six Conference contest will get underway at 6:30 p.m. with the junior varsity teams, followed immediately with the varsity units.

T'was 'Year of the Spartans'

Cherry Hill winds up 8-1

Hanging on to a 28-12 victory over a stubborn Clarenceville football team, Cherry Hill brought the curtains down to an auspicious 8-1 over-all season.

The record stands as the best in the school's history and Coach Jerry Pawloski pointed out, "it was gratifying and productive year."

"We've been working toward this season for about four years," said Pawloski who ended his fifth year as head coach. "We have not had a winning season since 1968 when we were 5-3 and the school's previous best was 7-1, but that was back in the early 60's."

Pawloski noted that the cycle next year will again be a rebuilding one because he will lose many of the talented players who helped make this a record year.

Cherry Hill had a tough job snatching the victory against from Clarenceville which trailed by only two points until the final 4 minutes of the game.

"They played a tough game," said Pawloski, "and came back on us twice, but we controlled the tempo, in fact, had the ball for at least 12 of the final 15 minutes of the game."

The Spartans got on the board first. Midway in the initial quarter, Aaron Smith caught a 11-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Rick Searcy, culminating a midfield march.

Cherry Hill made it 8-0 with Darnell Green's two-point conversion.

Following an exchange of punts, Clarenceville countered with its first score of the game. Quarterback Jim Byer went in from the two, ending a 56-yard drive. But Clarenceville's bid for the two-point conversion was foiled by the Spartan defense.

Ahead 8-6, Cherry Hill widened the gap in the second quarter with Randy Frederick's five-yard up the middle TD burst, following another long drive which spotlighted a 23-yard pass from Searcy to Jon Sweet.

Sweet, who now owns the Spartans' pass reception record, (29 catches for 580 yards) set a single game record of nine receptions for 150 yards.

Cherry Hill saw its 14-6 halftime edge dwindle shortly after the half.

Clarenceville put on a sustained drive after the kickoff and again scored on a two-yard Beyer sneak. But, again, they failed to cash in on the conversion, leaving them two-point shy of making up the difference.

The Spartans got some breathing room when Green picked off a Beyer pass midway in the third quarter and set up runningback Tom Minor's 12-yard touchdown sprint. Green attempted the point after and his kick was blocked.

An eight-minute, 60-yard drive which ended with Frederick taking it in from the three sealed the Spartans' record-bursting victory.

Minor ended his prep grid career with 12 carries and 110 yards, while Searcy had 12 passes (of 20) for 200 yards with Sweet hauling down all 12 passes.

Searcy has now completed 47 of 90 tosses, 12 of them TDs, for a record 1,115 yards. He also has scored nine touchdowns with his elusive running.

Gallant, who accounted for eight tackles and two assists and a sack of

Two horribly annoying reasons to introduce Mobil Super Unleaded Gasoline.

A car should be seen and not heard.

That's why we're introducing new Mobil Super Unleaded Gasoline with a higher octane level.

Not only does it help knock the knocks and pings out of your engine, it could also give your car more power than most other gasolines. (In fact, millions of cars on the road today are being cheated of peak engine performance.)

And what's more, if your car is properly tuned, and still shakes, sputters and backfires after you turn the key off, using Mobil Super Unleaded may help eliminate all that. And that's whether your car is new or old.

And even if you've been using leaded premium gasoline you'll be glad to know that Mobil Super Unleaded's high octane level is high enough to meet anti-knock requirements of most cars today.

Mobil Super Unleaded. Because when you're driving, one of the nicest sounds in the world is the sound of absolutely nothing.

Edsel makes Canton forget winning season

T-Birds crush Schuele's Chiefs in finale, 22-0

By ERIC GEARNS
(Special to ANP)

It's all over for the Canton Chiefs and their dreams of posting their first winning football season. And the year certainly didn't go out like Canton ushered it in. Edsel Ford made sure of that. Coach Jon Davis' T-Birds racked up

25 first downs, and 324 yards total offense en route to a 22-0 thrashing in the first meeting ever of these two non-league rivals. "Edsel Ford was bigger and stronger than we were, and they defended us very well," said Canton Coach Dave Schuele who ended his third year as head coach with a 4-5 record. "They were just a much better ball club than we were tonight." Edsel successfully keyed in on Canton's all-state candidate, Rusty Mandle, the first Canton ballcarrier who has picked up 1,000 or more yards in one season. The T-Birds held Mandle to a mere eight yards rushing in 12 carries. The Chiefs, in fact, managed only 62 yards total offense and four first downs, two of those coming by penalty. The score could have been much worse were it not for an abundance of Edsel Ford penalties and some staunch defensive work by the Chiefs. The T-Birds were assessed 120 yards for their infractions and gave up the ball four times on interceptions. Three of those interceptions came from the Chiefs diminutive junior halfback Steve Gray (5-7, 145 pounds) who returned the errant passes for a total of 82 yards. Canton assistant coach Allie Sutfy had a great deal of praise for Gray and said afterwards, "Steve is a gutsy kid who has played his heart out all year and may be the most underrated player on this squad." In addition to Gray's heroics, the defense gave Canton fans something to cheer about in the third quarter as Edsel Ford had the ball first and goal on the Canton three and didn't score.

Wayne retains WW swimming title

Despite some adjustments in his lineup, Coach Jim McPartlin managed to come up with the right combination to retain the prestigious Western Wayne Swimming & Diving title for the second year in a row. Wayne captured only two first places - claiming the 100-yard breaststroke thanks to Dana Sleicher's 1:19.8 performance and sweeping the finale, the 400-yard freestyle relay with Lori Miles, Gretchen and Kelly Batterson, and Lacy Lopez, but had enough depth to top its five challengers. With 268 team points, McPartlin's girls has little difficulty convincing arch-rivals, Westland John Glenn, to forget about the championship. Glenn was second best for the second year in a row with 241 points, followed by Taylor Kennedy (178), Garden City East (177), Belleville (163) and Willow Run (97). "It was a good team effort and our depth that saw us through this meet," said McPartlin whose Zebras wrap up the dual meet season on Thursday against Riverview. (The meet is also designated as seniors' night).

"Placing four of our divers in the finals also helped us out tremendously." Despite their fifth place finish, Belleville produced three gold medalists. Martha Ryznar was one of two double winners as she stroked a 2:11.5 in picking up the 200-yard freestyle, then coming back with a 1:00.6 to nose out Gretchen Batterson for top honors in the 100-yard freestyle.

Belleville's Lana Frye ruled the diving competition. With Glenn's veteran diver Janet Borgerding providing the severest threat, Miss Frye earned her gold with a total of 322.5 points. Miss Borgerding settled for second place with 316.45 points. Glenn had a winner in Thelma Kew who turned in an impressive 6:02.2 in winning the gruelling 500-yard freestyle event. Edsel tallied its final TD with 1:44 left in the game as Bruce Nabozny intercepted a Mandle pass and brought it back 35 yards for the touchdown. Edsel made the conversion to ice its sixth win in nine starts. Canton finished with a 4-5 season, a major improvement over last year's dismal 0-9 mark. Schuele will have a big job next year trying to find replacements for the 1000-yard rusher, Mandle, but he has a sturdy nucleus on defense with the return of Gray, Gearns, Steve Eddy and Mike Kitti.

Edsel QB Jamie Bedenis who had 90 yards in 12 carries was thrown back twice in that series, once by Dave Tanner and James Koch, and again by Gregg Santilli and Craig Gearns. The T-Birds then tried it twice with their big fullback Ron Roosevelt but Gray, Tanner and Koch stopped him short of the goal line. The T-Birds got on the scoreboard three times, once in the first, third and fourth quarters. Bedenis scored first on an 8-yard run with 1:35 remaining in the first quarter and kicked the extra point. He got the second score through the air, hitting Pat Brackett with a 30-yard scoring strike and getting two more on a fake kick with 8:31 in the first half.

the QB, Wayne Nichols, who had seven solos and three assists, and Green, with six tackles and four assists, including that key interception, led the defensive corps. Despite the record season, the playoffs eluded the Spartans who dropped a crucial Tri-River Conference game to undefeated Melvindale. Melvindale perfect 9-0 record, including a "must" victory over Robichaud gave the Cardinals a ticket to the Class B state semi-finals.

Reasons to smile

Despite garnering but two of 11 first places, Wayne Memorial proved for the second year in a row that it had the best over-all team at the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational for girls.

Coach Jim McPartlin's tankers smile after their impressive victory at Westland John Glenn, winning the over-all championship by more than 40 points.

Volleyballers start action in Wayne

After two weeks of action, the Bee Jays and LaParisian have established themselves as the teams to beat in the Wayne Women's Volleyball League.

Bee Jays had little trouble chalking up their second consecutive victory as they put down Paul Bosco & Sons in three straight games.

"I feel we have a strong volleyball team," said Bee Jays' captain Mary Porter. "Our strength lies in our experience and our ability to work together as a whole."

The Bee Jays were the 1977 playoff champs and also runners-up in the Division A to defending champ, LaParisian.

In other competition, Wonder Women squeaked past Burghoff Bar to remain undefeated on the season. Burghoff's received an outstanding effort from Debbie Halsey and could develop into this year's Cinderella team.

Westland Sports Shop dropped a close match to Darned If I Know, while Jake's Lounge defeated Swope Car Company in three games.

The 1979 Rabbit. Just hatched.

A bouncing baby hatchback. Or should we say hopping. The new 1979 Rabbit has lots of trunk room, plenty of people room and quite a bit of appeal in the showroom. It'll take you from 0 to 50 mph in 8.3 seconds of fuel-injected fun. So break out of your shell. In a Rabbit.

Are Ringing With Happy Results
For people who put Want Ads to work!

Want Ads in this paper work so well and so quickly to help you sell things you no longer need because they're advertising from people to people. Hundreds of people like you have worthwhile items they aren't using and enjoying . . . and at the same time, hundreds of others want and need these very things. These people who are in the market watch the Want Ads everyday, so your ad goes right to the very people who are looking for your offer.

Don't postpone collecting the extra cash that could be yours. Make a list of the things you'd like to turn into money. (Right now buyers are watching for things like furniture, appliances, power tools, musical instruments, winter sporting gear, toys and bikes and much more.) When you finish your list, call the phone number below for a friendly ad writer, who quickly helps you write a buyer bringing ad.

Start today! Soon your phone will be ringing with the happy news that money is on its way to you.
